

More Information Needed—Douglas ... In Penitentiary Probe

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

The State Patrol Tuesday turned over an initial report on an investigation into alleged theft of state property from the Penal Complex to Lancaster County Attorney Paul Douglas.

After reading the report, Douglas said the information given is not enough to file criminal charges.

"I hope the Patrol will make more (information) available tomorrow," he said.

The report, he said, documents circumstances surrounding the alleged theft of electrical equipment, including extension cords, wall receptacles and steel plates. He said two persons are named in the report, but he declined to identify them.

Further Reports

Capt. Vern W. Byler, head of the Patrol's criminal investigation division, indicated further reports would be made available to Douglas. He refused to say whether the investigation had been completed.

Byler said lie detector tests were performed Monday, but he declined to supply the results or names of those involved.

The probe began last Friday after the governor's office gave the State Patrol the contents of an anonymous letter, later sent to the news media, saying four high level officials at the Penal Complex had misappropriated state property, according to gubernatorial aide Norm Otto.

Two Suspended

Pending the outcome of the investigation, Donald Best, acting corrections director, said Associate Warden Edward Miller and John Phillips, head of the Penitentiary's warehouse, have been suspended. He later said a third person, Associate Warden Robert Hubbell, has taken a voluntary leave of absence.

The suspensions were ordered by Warden Charles Wolff Jr., who was reported en route to Hot Springs, Ark., for a corrections conference and unavailable for comment.

Best stressed that thus far only allegations are involved, and there has been no check made by prison staff to ascertain what, if anything, was missing.

"If the allegations are untrue, the men will be reinstated with full pay," he said.

'Just A Rumor'

"Thus far, it's just rumor. The suspension is standard operating procedure when such questions are raised," he said.

Besides the electrical equipment, there was no indication what else might have been missing.

Otto said there is apparently "no great amount" of property involved. However, the anonymous author of the letter touched off the investigation said in a telephone conversation with The Star that refrigerators, furniture, tractors, livestock and haystacks were taken from the Penal Complex to a rural cabin.

No Indication

Penal Complex officials gave no indication whether an examination of the Penal Complex's financial records by State Auditor Ray A. C. Johnson had played a role in uncovering missing property.

Several weeks ago, an audit was halted when major discrepancies were found in the Penal Complex's records. The man in charge of the books was fired at that time.

Johnson acknowledged Monday that the investigation was going on but he declined to comment publicly until his audit is completed.

Belfast Is Terrorized ... Protestants Strike

WOMEN JEER ... at Belfast marchers.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Militant Protestants fired on police who attempted to clear away their street barricades Tuesday. They also punched Britain's top union leader as he led a march to break the week-old strike that has given the militants a stranglehold on Northern Ireland.

"We'll shoot you in the back when you come home tonight," a woman screamed at the marchers.

Most Roman Catholic workers kept to the safety of their homes.

Gangs of Protestant toughs, swinging cudgels, roamed the streets. Others cut down trees and utility poles to strengthen roadblocks paralyzing traffic into the city.

In London, Prime Minister Harold Wilson told the House of Commons that the Protestant campaign was a throwback to the religious wars of the 17th century.

Marches led by top British labor unionist Len Murray failed to break the crippling Protestant strike, called to protest British government moves that Protestants fear will lead to eventual union with the predominantly Catholic Irish republic.

Murray, at the head of 150 other labor unionists, was attacked by a mob of screaming women who broke through a security cordon.

Protestant extremists hurled eggs, tomatoes and chunks of iron at the marchers. Murray, general secretary of Britain's powerful Trades Union Congress, was punched and spat upon.

Surrounded by troops and police, Murray led the marchers into the huge Harland and Wolff shipyards, but there were too few workers to get the plant in operation.

A second march was to the Castlereagh industrial estate on the city's eastern outskirts, but less than 100 turned out and they were outnumbered by taunting demonstrators.

Union leaders, who hoped thousands of workers would defy the militants, were disappointed as Protestant diehards gripped the province still more tightly. Public transport has been brought to a standstill, much of Northern Ireland is without power and industry is crippled.

As the marches got under way, Protestant youths hijacked dozens of cars and trucks to build new barricades. Some of the vehicles were set on fire.

Police who attempted to dismantle a road block in eastern Belfast were fired on with automatic weapons. No casualties were reported.

Two policemen were injured in a stoning attack at another barricade in north Belfast, and in the eastern part of the city rioting crowds hurled rocks at security forces.

As soon as troops and police dismantled barricades, new ones were thrown up.

Most of the barricades ringing Belfast had been cleared away by late evening, but scattered violence still plagued the city.

A bomb injured two young girls in the Roman Catholic Turf Lodge area. Two teen-age girls were wounded by a blast of gunfire at a cafe on the nearby Antrim Road.

In Bangor, a resort town east of the capital, a bomb was thrown into a bar but caused no injuries. Security authorities said the owner was a Protestant who had refused to close, in line with the strikers' demands.

Pakistani Warns 'Nuclear Floodgate' Now Open

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (AP) — The chairman of Pakistan's Atomic Energy Commission, Dr. Munir Ahmad Khan, hinted here Tuesday that Pakistan might be compelled to follow India's example of exploding a nuclear device.

Khan's warning followed a statement by Indian Foreign Minister Swaran Singh accusing Pakistan of an "uncharitable reaction" to India's nuclear test last Saturday.

Singh reiterated India's position that it would use nuclear power solely for peaceful purposes.

But the Pakistani AEC chairman rejected the promise and warned that the Indian test in Rajasthan on Pakistan's border had "opened the floodgate for nuclear weapons."

"Unless strong and decisive steps are taken by the nuclear powers, the membership of the nuclear club will not stop at six," he said.

Pakistan is pursuing "a well-defined coherent nuclear program which aims at providing the technical know-how it needs to meet its requirements," he declared.

He listed those requirements as economic development and survival.

Pakistan had already found uranium deposits in Punjab Province and other areas of the country "and we shall exploit the uranium for our program very soon," he said.

He said that Pakistan had a number of "brilliant scientists" in the field who were internationally recognized.

India's nuclear blast would lead India to the next stage of exploding nuclear weapons, he predicted. The plutonium for the explosion was obtained by India from the reactor given to it by Canada, he said.

And Canada's adverse reaction to the test clearly indicated that the pledges made by India when they received the reactor had not been honored, he said.

Munir Khan said that although Pakistan supported the principle of nuclear non proliferation, it had not signed the nuclear nonproliferation treaty because India had not done so.

"Events have shown that our stand has been vindicated," he said.

Pakistan has strongly condemned the Indian nuclear test and launched a major diplomatic offensive designed to obtain assurances from the big powers against nuclear blackmail by India.

The two neighboring nations have been to war three times since the partition of the subcontinent in 1947 following the withdrawal of the British.

SE Tech Board Adopts Salary, Benefits Report

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

The Southeast Nebraska Technical Community College Area Board Tuesday adopted a committee report on salary and fringe benefits for its staff, rejecting a professional agreement submitted by the Southeast Community College Faculty Association.

The board directed Area President Robert S. Eicher to determine new staff salaries for the board's approval, after which contracts will be offered immediately for the 1974-75 school year.

The association had proposed a formal, union-like contract, with built-in pay steps, grievance procedures and wide-ranging fringe benefits for example, all for negotiation.

The board took the position that as a public body, it "may not delegate or contract away its statutory duties including the duty to manage." Thus, "it can negotiate only those items covered by the law, such as salary or fringe benefits for members of the association.

Tech College's Tuition Reduced

"Under no circumstances will the board consider any (other) items," the statement said.

Guidelines Set

Each staff member's salary for the 1974-75 contract year, to "keep the total dollars to be expended within the limitations of the Legislature," will be determined by these guidelines:

—Each program area will have an established range for salary to be paid, based on the assignment and duties of each employee. The ranges will be determined by the area president, Eicher, in consultation with the three campus directors.

—The campus directors will determine, after consulting with department chairmen, the appropriate salary for each staff member.

—Eicher will receive and may revise the recommendations of each campus director. The area board may review and revise proposed salaries before approving them.

The board noted that salary increases proposed by the association would cost almost $391,000 more than the appropriation allowed SE Tech by the Legislature.

The Unicameral mandated a maximum of $238,972 for the area board to provide increased salaries to the college's employees in all classifications.

"It is the intent of the board to use the total amount allocated for that purpose. We cannot exceed the limitation imposed by the Legislature," the statement said.

'Assignment, Performance'

"The board believes that people should be paid on the basis of their assignment and performance," the statement said. "In no instance will the board consider a lock-step pay system equivalent to that of the state's elementary and secondary public schools."

Board members agreed to match employee contributions to the retirement fund, to which the Legislature allocated $185,770 to SE Tech against payments by professional, administrative and support staff.

Otherwise, the board said, it is "unable to increase fringe benefits beyond the current level for the 1974-75 year." That currently includes health insurance at $132 annually and long-term disability at $76 annually.

The statement explained that SE Tech "is already exceeding the state guideline for fringe benefits per person, other than retirement benefits." (The state guideline is $180 per person. SE Tech payments currently average $208 per person.)

But the board asked its fiscal director and Eicher to seek an increase in the allocation and state level for fringe benefits in future budgets, to add more programs.

Prescription Drugs Kill Thousands

(c) Washington Star-News

Washington — Two Californians, a physician and a pharmacist, who reported in 1973 that at least 30,000 Americans are killed each year by the side effects of prescription drugs, have escalated their estimate by a factor of two.

In a letter last week to the Journal of the American Medical Association (AMA) which was discussed at Senate hearings Monday, Robert B. Talley, the physician, and Marc F. LaVentur, the pharmacist, now say that the annual death toll traceable to drugs is no less than 60,000 and maybe as high as 140,000.

Estimate 'Conservative'

Talley and LaVentur are both at the San Joaquin Medical Foundation in San Joaquin, Calif. They say their revised estimate — based on information made available since their original study — must be viewed as "probably extremely conservative."

The reason for this, their letter explains, is that the projection of drug-caused deaths is drawn only from studies of hospitalized patients. Were it also to include elderly patients in nursing homes and patients treated in clinics and doctors' offices, they add, a higher death toll could "logically be assumed."

The question of how much death and injury is caused either by prescription of the wrong drug or entirely unnecessary prescribing has been raised repeatedly at hearings of the Senate health subcommittee, chaired by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

The charges of widespread drug-related deaths have drawn angry denials from the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association, the lobby that represents the nation's $8.5 billion a year drug industry and from some doctors as well.

AMA Witnesses

Earlier this month, for example, AMA witnesses appearing before Kennedy described the 30,000-a-year death estimate as "mythical." The witnesses said, however, that they had no information which could lead to more accurate estimates.

When the question came up again at Monday's hearings, two Department of Health, Education and Welfare officials — Dr. Charles C. Edwards, assistant secretary for health, and Food and Drug Administration Commissioner Alexander Schmidt — took a middle ground.

'No Quarrel'

Both officials said they had no quarrel either with the Talley-LaVentur report or with those of other scientists who have published studies tracing massive death and injury to the misuse of prescription drugs. But, they added, the government feels that more information is needed — particularly where illness resulting from antibiotics is concerned.

For this reason, they reported, a group of scientists in and out of government is examining the use of antibiotics for HEW.

The Senate health subcommittee is holding hearings on two bills — one introduced by Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., and the other sponsored by Kennedy and Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y. — that would restrict the ways in which the pharmaceutical industry could advertise and promote prescription drugs.

Study Disclosed

Monday, in connection with these bills, Kennedy disclosed a study made for the FDA by an independent firm.

The study — a representative survey of thousands of physicians — showed that most would prefer to get less information from drug company advertising and "detailmen" (salesmen) and more from FDA publications, impartial newsletters, and other sources in which industry promotional efforts did not play a role.

In particular, a majority of the doctors surveyed — 87% — said they would welcome information that told them about the price of drugs and their quality simultaneously

Chambers Probably Can Run Without Mate

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Secretary of State Allen Beermann probably will allow Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha access to the 1974 general election gubernatorial ballot without a running mate.

In an interview, Chambers said he will file sufficient signatures to qualify as an independent candidate for governor prior to the effective date of two new laws requiring petition candidates to choose their own running mates.

Strong Indications

And, although he will not make a final decision until he is faced with the actual facts, Beermann gave strong indications Tuesday that he would accept the petitions.

"My inclination would be to put him on the ballot in order to get away from more constitutional problems and problems with the election itself," Beermann said.

"There would be fewer problems if I put him on than if I refused the petitions."

If Beermann refuses, Chambers has threatened a lawsuit which could upset the 1974 general election, contending that the process violated the U.S. Constitution.

Nebraska's new team election law requiring the joint election of a governor and lieutenant governor this year did not provide for petition or write-in candidacies.

That void was filled by two bills, LB932 and LB933, enacted by the 1974 Legislature. But those laws did not contain the emergency clause, and will not be operative until July.

Chambers said he will file petitions with the necessary 2,000 signatures required to gain entry to the general election ballot in June, thus beating the effective date.

No Reason

"I think there would be no reason for the secretary of state to reject the petitions," Chambers said. "I don't believe those laws can act retroactively."

Chambers does not want to choose a lieutenant governor running mate.

Thus, the general election ballot would list Democratic Gov. J. James Exon and his running mate, Gerald Whelan; Republican nominee Richard Marvel and his running mate, Anne Batchelder, and Chambers without a running mate.

If Chambers should win, Beermann acknowledged, there would be "a problem" since voters would not have chosen a lieutenant governor

But the position probably could then be filled by gubernatorial appointment, he said.

Chambers personally will solicit signatures for his gubernatorial petitions in the coming weeks.

"In that way, if people have any questions about me, they can ask," he said.

Chambers said he will "have basically no money to operate with," but he believes "the main thing money can do in a campaign is to make a person's name known."

Name Familiar

"I think people are generally familiar with my name, and my campaign would be designed to let them know what the name signifies."

Chambers would ask to participate in the tentatively scheduled debates between Exon and Marvel.

'My Ambition Obscured My Judgment'
Magruder Going To Prison

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jeb Stuart Magruder, conceding that "I lost my ethical compass," was sentenced Monday to serve at least 10 months in prison for his major role in the Watergate break-in and cover-up.

Magruder, once the No. 2 man in President Nixon's re-election campaign and a key figure in breaking open the Watergate affair, told the sentencing judge: "My ambition obscured my judgment."

U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica imposed a 10 months to four year term on Magruder to be served at a minimum security institution. Sirica said he will recommend that Magruder be sent to the federal facility at Allenwood, Pa. It is a five-hour drive from the Washington area for Magruder's wife and four children.

Magruder, assistant to the President for 1½ years before taking on the re-election committee job in May 1971, had pleaded guilty last Aug. 16 to a single count of conspiracy to intercept communications, obstruct justice and defraud the United States.

Sirica gave Magruder until June 4 to surrender to begin serving his sentence.

The charge carried a maximum sentence of five years imprisonment and a $10,000 fine.

He was the sixth former White House employee to be sentenced to prison in connection with post-Watergate scandals. The others were Dwight L. Chapin, Egil Krogh, Herbert L. Porter, E. Howard Hunt and G. Gordon Liddy.

In pleading guilty, Magruder admitted that he helped "devise, implement and carry out a strategy" to break into the Democratic Party headquarters and that he conspired to cover-up involvement through lies, paying hush money and destroying evidence.

"It will take me a long time to understand the ease with which I surrendered what I always considered my fundamental, immutable beliefs," Magruder said in a brief statement before sentencing.

"I know what I've done. I am confident the country will survive its Watergates and its Jeb Magruder."

He spoke of seeing "confusion in the eyes of my children, heart-break in the eyes of my wife, contempt in the eyes of others," and said: "somewhere between my ambition and ideals I lost my ethical compass."

Magruder and John W. Dean III, the President's counsel, were the first White House insiders to carry details of the Watergate cover-up to federal prosecutors. Then Magruder, followed by Dean, told the story publicly for the first time in the Senate Watergate hearings.

Magruder testified that his committee boss, former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell approved the break-in plan at a meeting in Key Biscayne, Fla. Mitchell later denied it.

Sirica gave Magruder until June 4 to surrender to begin serving his sentence.

The charge carried a maximum sentence of five years imprisonment and a $10,000 fine.

N.Y. Times Summary—
Independence For Mozambique

Lourenco Marques, Mozambique — The cabinet minister in charge of Portugal's overseas territories said Tuesday he expected Mozambique to become independent next year. Dr. Antonio Almeida Santos, a member of the provisional government named by the military junta in Lisbon last week, said during a visit to Mozambique that a referendum would be held there within a year and that the territory's residents undoubtedly would choose independence.

Political Strains In Open

Lisbon — Strains between Portugal's ruling junta and the provisional government it named last week came into the open after the departure of the country's deposed premier and president for exile in Brazil. Leftist cabinet members, some of whom were in jail under the former regime, objected to the junta's decision to let the ousted leaders leave the country.

Accord 'Virtually Set'

Tel Aviv — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, continuing his peace shuttle between Israel and Syria, virtually completed the details for a cease-fire line on the Golan front and made progress in other areas of a proposed disengagement accord. After five hours of talks in Damascus, an American spokesman said the cease-fire line "is virtually set."

Price Rollbacks Rejected

Washington — The House rejected a bill, opposed by the administration, to roll back oil and gasoline price and authorize rationing at the pump. Democratic supporters of the measure said they would try to bring it back to the floor later for another test, but Tuesday's action was regarded as an unfavorable augury for them.

Minority Suspensions Probed

Washington — The Department of Health, Education and Welfare is studying data collected from the country's 20 largest cities on the disproportionate number of minority children suspended and expelled from public schools, and it informed a House subcommittee that the study would result in action. In New York City, it said, of 19,518 pupils suspended in the 1972-73 school year, 16,780 were minority children.

Anti-Secrecy Bill
Said Too Limited

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill curtailing congressional and governmental secrecy may not apply to the executive branch, a Senate panel was told Tuesday by the National Newspaper Association.

The association said that the antiseccrecy bill introduced by Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., should be drafted to apply clearly to all parts of the federal establishment, including the executive branch.

Charles Rowe, a member of the group's Freedom of Information Committee, testified at a hearing on the bill that the measure has other points that should be clarified.

"Insofar as agencies are concerned, the bill requires meetings to be open only when official action is considered or discussed," said Rowe, editor of the Fredericksburg, Va., Free Lance-Star. "We hope the committee's report will clearly indicate that this language is to be given a broad interpretation, not a narrow or restrictive one."

Rowe said the association saw no reason to allow an exemption from open meeting requirements any congressional, agency or departmental meetings at which staff, personnel or management matters will be discussed.

"This legislation, should it be enacted, will be examined closely for loopholes by the federal bodies it attempts to govern," said Rowe. "There is no need for Congress to provide additional and unnecessary provisions whereby federal officials can evade the intent of Congress."

Rowe warned that many governmental actions that directly affect the public could remain secret under the legislation if an agency or department interprets them to be personnel or management matters.

He said the legislation "will serve a high purpose if it can be drafted in a way to fully restore the confidence of the public in the institutions of government."

The association played a prominent role in securing enactment of the first Federal Freedom of Information Act in 1966. The law's provisions would be broadened by the Chiles bill, which is modeled after a Florida law opening up all state government meetings.

Among other things, the bill would open to the public the congressional committee meetings at which legislation is considered and modified before it goes to the floor. Similar legislation has been introduced in the House by Rep. Bill Gunter, D-Fla., who joined several senators to testify at the hearing on the Chiles proposal.

"It is my strong belief," said Gunter, "that the time is right to enact such legislation, and that opening the processes of Congress and other agencies of the federal government is indeed mandated by the troubling events of recent times . . ."

Average Price For Gas
Remains Steady—AAA

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Automobile Association reported Tuesday that average gasoline prices remained steady this week and there appeared to be no serious supply problems.

The AAA report matches the expectations of the Federal Energy Office, which predicted last month that gasoline supply would just about match demand in May.

But the FEO also forecast that a small gap between supply and demand would reopen in June and persist for the rest of the year.

The AAA said a nationwide spot check of 5,444 service stations found the average price of gasoline still at 55 cents for regular and 59 cents for premium.

It said less than one per cent of the stations were out of fuel when contacted and only two per cent were still limiting customer purchases of gasoline.

The AAA found slight increases in the numbers of gasoline stations remaining open on evenings and Sundays.

The survey said the six New England states had the most limited fuel conditions, but even there only one per cent of the service stations were out of fuel and eight per cent were limiting purchases.

Guru Weds Secretary In Elaborate Ceremony

Wednesday, May 22, 1974 The Lincoln Star 3

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Guru Maharaj Ji, the 16-year-old "perfect master" who claims six million followers, has married his 24-year-old secretary — after receiving special permission from a juvenile court judge.

The wedding ceremony was held at sunset Monday at Vockland Community Church at Lookout Mountain west of here. The marriage was performed by the Rev. Lyle J. Schossow, pastor of the nondenominational church.

Barry Ollman, a spokesman for the short, cherubic guru, said about 50 persons attended the ceremony. It included quotations from the book of Matthew in the Bible and a passage by Lebanese poet Khalil Gibran on the meaning of marriage.

GURU ... married at 16.

Maharaj Ji is spiritual leader of the Divine Light Mission. He says his purpose is to bring world peace by imparting "the knowledge," which his followers say cannot be adequately described in words.

The guru wore a dark tuxedo to the wedding. The bride, Marolyn Lois Johnson, wore a white and red gown.

Maharaj Ji, who has recently begun sporting a sparse mustache, met his blonde bride about a year ago. Ollman said her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Johnson, traveled to the ceremony from their home in San Diego, Calif.

Ollman described the bride as "a very beautiful, humble person." Other devotees said she played the role of a stewardess in a film made for the mission entitled "Who is Maharaj Ji?"

"It's all happened so fast," Ollman said. "We're all spinning."

The wedding was followed by an elaborate reception at the guru's $80,000 house in a fashionable Denver neighborhood Monday night. Ollman said the party included music and "Christmas lights" adorning the house.

A huge cabin cruiser mounted on a trailer and decorated with yellow ribbons — apparently a gift to the guru — remained on the lawn Tuesday afternoon. A silver Maserati sports car was parked in the driveway, and "Just married" was written in whitewash on the rear windows.

Maharaj Ji needed a court order from Juvenile Court Judge Morris E. Cole to obtain a marriage license because Colorado law requires men to be 18 to be married without parental permission.

The guru's father is dead and his mother lives in India.

Maharaj Ji claims more than 30,000 followers in the United States and six million worldwide. The Divine Light Mission, which is the guru's spiritual organization, is based in Denver.

Born in India, the Maharaj Ji reigns over a million-dollar business missionary corporation that includes activities such as film production, educational projects and the Cleanliness is Next to Godliness Janitorial Service.

April's .4% Dip In Food Costs Said To Be Biggest In 7 Years

Washington (UPI) — Food prices dropped in April by the biggest monthly margin in seven years and the nation's galloping inflation rate appeared slowing to a trot, the government reported Tuesday.

Herbert Stein, President Nixon's chief economist, said the new cost of living figures foreshadowed "a more durable change for the better."

Beef Down 4.7%

The welcome relief from months of rapidly rising supermarket prices was most noticeable at the meat counter, where beef prices dropped an average 4.7% nationwide, the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) said.

Pork, poultry, egg and fresh vegetable prices also fell in April and sent the food component of the Consumer Price Index (CPI) down 0.4% for the first decline since September and the biggest one-month drop since February, 1967.

Gasoline prices also showed signs of stabilizing at their sky-high levels, registering their smallest monthly run-up since the onset of the energy crisis last October. But the cost of clothing, restaurant meals and new and used cars rose faster than normal and helped push the overall CPI up 0.6%, according to the BLS.

Prices Still Higher
This was only half as fast as the hefty price hikes of the past two months but prices Americans paid in April for retail goods and services still were 10.2% higher than a year earlier — a staggering increase by historical standards.

There was more sobering news from the BLS: Wages of blue collar workers continued to fall behind the rising cost of living for the seventh straight month. Real spendable earnings (what's left on a worker's paycheck each week after payroll deductions for federal income tax and social security) fell 0.8% in April and 5.6% in the past 12 months.

Stein blamed shortages of food and energy products for most of the big consumer price surge of recent months. "As these supply difficulties are overcome, food and energy price increases are slowing sharply with a major effect in moderating the overall inflation rate."

Big Jumps Likely
There will likely be more big jumps in the months ahead but Stein said "The April slowdown ... is representative of a more durable change for the better."

Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz noted that farm prices have dropped 20 to 40% since January "and it is high time that these lower farm prices show up more fully in lower retail prices."

An independent calculation based on the BLS report showed that a typical consumers' market basket of U.S.-produced foods dropped 1.1% last month, the first drop since October. At this rate, it would cost $1,728 to feed a hypothetical family for one year, $19 less than in March.

The price index now stands at 144.0 based on a 1967 average of 100, meaning that $10 worth of retail goods and services in 1967 had risen to $14.40 last month.

Councils Seek Stronger Roles

Frustrated by what they might term a steadily declining voice in municipal affairs, city council members representing a cross-section of American communities are organizing to seek a stronger role in city government.

At a meeting in St. Paul, Minn., last week, attended by five members of the Lincoln City Council, municipal legislators observed that councils in many cities have come to the point where they are merely reacting to executive (mayoral) programs rather than initiating policy. In many cases councils are seen as rubber stamps for administrators. The legislators expressed the belief that they should have more control over policy because they do have control over purse strings.

Council members see the need to have access to better information on which to base decisions and initiate policy and the need for some kind of national forum at which ideas and solutions to problems can be exchanged. They see existing municipal organizations, such as the National League of Cities, as mayor-dominated.

The legislators in St. Paul decided to study their problem and the alternative solutions to it: whether municipal lawmakers should seek a stronger voice and better programming for their benefit through existing state and national organizations or whether separate organizations should be formed.

We're not sure to what extent the nation's cities have become executive-dominated. This striving by representatives of city councils across the nation to strengthen council roles might be read as merely another manifestation of the old legislative-executive tug of war.

But it is decidedly to the advantage of the public that city councils receive expert guidance while carrying out legislative responsibilities, from the standpoint of making well-informed budgetary and policy decisions and also from the standpoint of providing the needed check and balance on executive power. To those ends, the goals outlined in St. Paul sound sensible.

Locally, the idea-exchange concept might already have had an impact. Lincoln council members were dismayed to learn in St. Paul that they have almost no staff (administrative assistants, clerical, research, legal, etc.) compared to councils in other cities. This may lead to council consideration of a larger staff operation, which seems to be a worthwhile undertaking.

City Okays Rate Hikes

There's some irony in the fact that energy conservation practices have contributed to increases in energy rates. But it has happened in Lincoln as well as elsewhere.

Monday the City Council approved an average 13.7% increase in rates as of June 1 for the Lincoln Electric System (LES), an unwanted but necessary hike as far as the council majority was concerned.

LES administrators noted the lack of anticipated revenue growth — attributed to the conservation consciousness of consumers who cut down on usage somewhat — and spiraling costs of fuel, materials and construction due to inflation. The cost of fuel oil to LES, for example, is up 134%. Coal is up 43%, wood poles up 80%, under ground cable up 20%, overhead wires up 60%, and so on.

These economic restrictions come at a time when the city has committed itself to greater capital improvement expenditures, mainly in the area of placing electric lines underground.

Feeling the inflationary pinch, too, is

If This And If That

WASHINGTON — Most readers of Washington tea leaves say that the House of Representatives will vote to impeach the President about mid-July, around Bastille Day; the Senate will begin its trial a month later. Toward the end of September, in this scenario, conservative Republicans and southern Democrats would join to make up that "one third plus one" necessary to bring in a verdict that would not convict.

That prospect pleases many. The President would be most severely rebuked but not driven from office; congressmen running in the fall could point to their votes to throw him out (or, to Nixon supporters, "to give him a fair trial") and the majority of the public, dissatisfied with the President but not wanting his head on a plate, would have enjoyed a rip-snorting constitutional show with a happily inconclusive ending.

The trouble with the conventional wisdom is that it is as chancy as drawing for a "gut card" to fill an inside straight. Contrary to the wishful thinking of most of the President's moderate adversaries, and antithetical to the Nixon strategy of sacrificing votes in the House to hold on to votes in the Senate, there is a good chance that impeachment will gather a momentum of its own — one that the President's foes and friends together will not be able to stop.

If Richard Nixon is impeached by the House, there is an increasing possibility that he will be convicted by the Senate, indicted by a grand jury, convicted by a petit jury, and sentenced to a term in jail.

Whoa. Only one American in six, according to a recent Time Magazine poll, wants to see the President impeached at all; the vast majority of Americans, including many who urgently wish he would resign, do not want to see the President in jail.

But consider the logical consequences. If the House were to impeach, there would be a blitz to switch four or five Senate votes now in the Nixon column which, with impeachment's momentum behind it, might well succeed.

Since impeachment could succeed centered only on an "indictable crime," such as obstruction of justice, it would then be impossible to sing hail to a new chief and go home. If the Congress found Nixon guilty of a specific crime, then the special prosecutor would be duty-bound to seek indictment of Private Citizen Nixon for that crime.

No citizen is above the law, the prosecutor would argue with great logic. Ex-president or no, a crime requires that justice be done. Since Nixon is not the type to plea-bargain or assert anything but his innocence, it can be expected that a District of Columbia grand jury would indict and a D.C. petit jury would convict.

Lincoln General Hospital, and the council Monday heard its plea to approve a hike in room rates to meet a rise in per diem operating costs. The council responded by approving an average 10% rate increase to go into effect June 8. Under the new schedule, intensive care would go from $120 to $135 per day; semi-private rooms from $52 to $58 per day, for example.

Councilmen Max Denney and John Robinson voted against the LES rate hike and Denney cast a solo vote against the hospital rate increase with the comment, regarding both, that "the time has come to start saying no on some of these things." We appreciate the concern Denney and Robinson have for raising essential service rates to the already inflation-burdened consumer. But the public services, like the individual, are faced with inflationary costs and in the case of LES, not as much revenue as had been anticipated. It may be unpopular, but it appears to be necessary to increase the rates in order to give the public the kind of service it wants and should have.

It seems to be an occupational hazard that, once a man finds himself in a position where he can direct other men's lives, he will do whatever it takes to hang onto that power. And it's beginning to look like "whatever" means anything he thinks he can get away with.

The obvious example of the moment, of course, is the President, who is fighting tooth and writ to keep the job that has been described as the most powerful in the world.

But he is only one among many. All around him are advisers and counselors who first tasted omnipotence in the oval office, got hooked and then, ac-

Far-fetched? Somewhere along the line, would there not be a deal, a resignation, a bill of abatement, a hung jury or an accident to stem the inexorable flow of consequences? Perhaps.

But perhaps not. I have taken the reader down this highly hypothetical road to show that it can happen here, and to urge some consideration of the consequences of impeachment.

The impeachment lobby does not want the public to think about the consequences to the nation of an imprisoned ex-president, for good reason: Fear of arriving at the ultimate destination might cause us to turn off at the first exit. One step at a time, say the impeachers: let justice take its course; it is not helpful for them to admit the possibility that the paths of impeachment lead but to the clink.

Then, of course, would come revulsion: What have we done? That question would quickly change to "what have they done?" In this "Ox-Bow Incident" reaction, the majority who only wanted a president rebuked or censured would blame the politicians for the incarceration of a political opponent.

The representative who voted for impeachment would then be hard put to explain that all that flowed from his vote had nothing to do with him.

Before the grand inquest becomes the grand inquisition, let us stop to think: Are we ready to go all the way? Can we depend on those who now intone "no man is above the law" to turn hypocrite if the House impeaches and the Senate convicts, and to say "Private Citizen Nixon has suffered enough, therefore let us make an exception in his case, or else the people will get angry with us?" Not likely; if and when the time comes, they will prosecute "to the full extent of the law."

The nation is not in such present danger of tyranny for us to set a precedent for the legal overthrow of elected leaders, and to open the possibility for their absolute degradation. Does anyone seriously suggest that the Nixon experience of the past year is not enough to deter some future president from taking a similar course, that only legal punishment will make the point?

Liberals who have fought Nixon over the years have a special responsibility now to take the long view. To consider all the consequences — including those which seem as remote as impeachment itself did not so long ago — before running the risk of being gripped by the momentum of retribution.

The road we are on is a rumor-greased expressway with fewer exits than we think, and — as Jefferson wrote to Madison — "Impeachment has been an engine more of passion than justice."

It Became Necessary

VIRGINIA PAYETTE

Universal Me-First-ism

NEW YORK — When you really stop to think about it, many of the dark deeds committed by men of influence can be traced back to a fierce aversion to unemployment: their own.

If you had a nickel for every time the country, the Constitution and the common man have been sold down the river by men scrambling to hold onto their jobs, you could forget about inflation.

Legislators from dairy and farm states sponsor laws for tariffs and price supports as consistently as the gentlemen from the South once resisted integration. And nobody has to tell the representatives from oil country how to vote on any bill that threatens depletion allowances.

Things aren't any more noble on the outside. Labor leaders, who claim to represent the working stiff, like to take care of themselves with little luxuries that include fat salaries and generous pension plans. All financed by the little guy.

Jobs like this are worth fighting to keep. United Mine Workers' Boyle even resorted to murder when somebody threatened his freedom. Other labor "leaders" get their members into illegal strikes, boycotts and highway mayhem, — and lie about strike votes when it suits their own purposes.

If the American people are inconvenienced or endangered (and generally they are), that's too bad. Union leaders, like politicians, don't hesitate to stretch the law if it helps them keep their jobs.

Even more ironical, their single-minded efforts to cling to their positions of power sometimes result in no jobs at all for you-know-who. The refusal of railroad and printers' unions, for instance, to face up to automation has helped bankrupt railroads and newspapers all over the country.

Now and then, there's a ray of light. Like German Chancellor Willy Brandt, who chucked it. And George Mahin, the assistant state controller of Illinois, who fired himself because there wasn't enough work to justify his $25,500 salary.

Imagine the unemployment if this caught on.

Calliope Strikes Up

WASHINGTON — With the House impeachment hearings in full swing, the mighty, 101-member staff still hasn't completed its homework.

We reported last January that the lawyers hadn't interviewed a single witness, that many staff members were assigned merely to answer routine impeachment mail and that some investigators spent their time reading newspapers and novels.

The pace picked up only slightly as the hearings approached. Not until the last few weeks have major Watergate figures been interviewed. Sources close to the investigation say the interviews have been inept and inadequate.

For instance, silent, stoic G. Gordon Liddy, the mastermind of the Watergate break-in, recently was ushered into the committee headquarters in handcuffs.

As he entered the long, sterile hallway, Liddy was directed to sign the log book. True to form, he refused to write his name until his lawyer persuaded him to relent. The only information Liddy gave the investigators was his signature accompanied by a note to the effect he had signed "only on advice of counsel and under duress."

His co-conspirator, E. Howard Hunt, who demanded and got White House hush money, caused a stir when he appeared before committee investigators. One young aide asked Hunt to autograph a copy of one of his spy novels. Hunt noted that the book was stamped the property of the Library of Congress. The staff member pleaded with him to sign anyway and Hunt grudgingly gave his autograph.

When the staff hauled in the President's personal attorney, Herbert Kalmbach, the atmosphere again was more that of a carnival than a serious inquiry. Kalmbach's presence caused so much excitement that the interview was constantly interrupted by committee employees entering and leaving the room.

Other Watergate figures, such as Jeb Magruder and Judge Matthew Byrne, have been interviewed. But the investigators still haven't gotten around to some key witnesses. For example, aerosol valve king Robert Abplanalp, a presidential crony and financial benefactor, hasn't appeared before the staff.

But the poor preparation probably won't prevent impeachment. The members of Congress are political weather-vanes and the winds of impeachment have shifted against the President. A reluctant Congress, it now appears, may be forced by an angry nation to impeach the President.

Dubious Alternate Plan

Lincoln, Neb.

I would like to propose an alternate plan to the building of a West Lincoln bypass through or paralleling Wilderness Park. Since we are experiencing monumental traffic problems in the downtown area and in the university area (especially during football games), and, in view of the fact that our concerned community leaders are not opposed to a constructive alteration of the park to benefit the community, I propose that Wilderness Park be converted into an asphalt parking lot.

We could cut down the large oak trees and make parking bumpers out of them, and convert the rest of the trees to lamp-posts by hollowing them out to accommodate wiring. A rapid transit system would connect commuters and fans with the downtown area. To appease the wild-eyed nature radicals, we could cover the asphalt with astro-turf and in that way their park would remain green.

In the matter of disposition of the animals, I'm sure we could sell most of them to children's zoos across the country, or sell the carcasses to nature-lovers for their wild game suppers. With the revenue we could buy plastic ducks to distribute throughout the parking area, or have a large statue of Bambi with "Go Big Red" stenciled on his side, erected in the middle of the parking lot.

We have ignored the problem of this dirty little park and its smelly animals too long. It is time to alter the Salt Creek flood-plain to solve the area's traffic problems, as we mold it into a waste receptacle to meet the area's needs in another location. Man's needs must be served — nature can wait!

The Great Uninformed

CHICAGO — A few years ago, a radio station did a street-corner survey, asking people what they thought of various governmental concepts. The majority said the concepts sounded too radical, liberal, communistic, impractical.

It turned out that they were being asked about the Bill of Rights.

Why are Americans so politically ignorant, indifferent and uninformed? Is it a lack of information?

I doubt there is a country in the world where there is more information, much of it solid.

Is it a lack of time to bone up on what's going on? Check your TV listings. There is time for Mannix and Mod Squad, The Price is Right, Here's Johnny, Spanish wrestling, Doc Elliott, Gunsmoke, Kojak, the Wednesday Night Movie, the Sunday Night Movie, the Early Show and the Late Show.

There is time on weekends to watch a parade of golfers, swimmers, acrobats, skiers, stock car racers, tennis players, bowlers, basketball players, baseball players, football players and hockey players, until your eyeballs tilt.

Or is the answer that Americans have become disillusioned about crooked politicians, turned off by candidates they cannot trust, men who make promises but do not deliver?

That has become the most popular explanation. And it should be, since it is the most soothing, self-indulgent cop-out of them all.

Just who has a right to be disillusioned?

If you take all the elections that take place over a four-year period — everything from suburban school board contests, to county offices, municipal and state offices, on up to the presidency — probably half the registered voters don't take part.

And then there are those who make up their minds purely on the basis of a party label, or for the candidate who has the slogan or charisma that appeals most to them.

What does that leave us with? A minority who actually consider issues, who bother to read, listen and try to make a thoughtful choice.

He's the only person who has any right to be disillusioned, not the belly-scratcher who says: "Ah, they're all crooks," and turns on the roller derby, or the smug creature who takes pride in saying: "I never discuss politics or religion."

These vegetables — now putting about their disillusionment — have given us the pocket-stuffing aldermen, the vested-interest congressmen, and such slogan-spouting busters as Spiro, the Gaffer.

Is it any surprise that Mr. Nixon and so many other politicians treat the average voters with contempt, using cheap slogans, TV pitches, double-talk, appealing to his prejudices and fears rather than to reason? The contempt is well earned.

CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — No computer could handle the specifics on the official and unofficial loot that has been heaped on presidents and their families through the ages. Some of the treasure trove has gone to museums and presidential libraries and museums. Some of it has been kept by the departing First Families, certain of whom have sold bits and pieces for profit.

Ned McLean, who owned the old Washington Post, built a golf course for his drinking friend, President Warren G. Harding, on the McLean estate, Friendship. Purpose of this was two-fold: it saved the President the inconvenience of playing amongst strangers at Chevy Chase and Columbia country clubs. And it allowed a McLean butler to approach the President's friendly foursome every four holes with a silver tray of drinks.

Somebody gave President Calvin Coolidge an electric rocking horse, which Silent Cal dourly mounted for the newsreels. (The pictures ranked with those of Cal wearing an Indian feather headpiece several sizes too large for him, and with the classic photo, taken by Buck May of the White House staff, showing Cal in a funeral business suit topped by an admiral's cap, reviewing the Atlantic Fleet while seated and half-beardedly saluting.

A rich Middle-West businessman whose sentence as a tax-evader had been commuted by President Franklin D. Roosevelt, presented F. D. R. with a gift of gratitude: a $25,000 gold, silver and platinum model of a Volga steamboat.

The purchase was made through New York's Hammer Galleries. The treasure had been picked up by the brothers Armand and Victor Hammer while in residence in Moscow during the 1920's. It was created in 1913 by the Czarist court jeweler Faberge as a present to the Czarevitch Alexis on the occasion of the 30th anniversary of the Romanoff dynasty.

Maxim Litvinov attended the formal presentation in the Oval Room. The then current entente, of which Litvinov had been a prime architect, was momentarily shaken when somebody pushed a button on the ornate steamboat and a music box inside gave out with "God Save the Czar." Litvinov's establishment had murdered him some years before.

When Roosevelt died, the donor assumed the treasure would go to the museum at Hyde Park.

Didn't quite make it. Elliott Roosevelt said it was his and sold it to another dealer. The second buyer presented it to Brandeis University, Waltham, Mass.

Gift-giving at the Summit level covers a wide range that must cause the proper authorities and consciences in Washington great trouble deciding which should be the property of the United States and which can enhance a President's nest of memorabilia.

President Eisenhower collected tons of gifts on the three last hurrah trips of his tenure, including an Arabian horse from President Bourguiba of Tunisia. (The U-2 incident, and Khrushchev's withdrawal of an invitation to tour the Soviet Union, loused up a proposed exchange. We forget what Khrushchev was going to give Ike — maybe a section of the Moscow subway. But we do remember what Ike was going to give Khrushchev: a plastic motorboat for the lake on the grounds of his dacha.)

President Johnson dropped in unexpectedly on Pope Paul VI one night via helicopter and sacrosanct Vatican garden. He presented the startled Pontiff with a plastic bust of himself. The Pope, with nothing else available, gave LBJ his blessing.

The Nixons have been the recipients of many diplomatic and friendly gifts, dating back to their near-assassination in Caracas while on a vice-presidential assignment. They have received the jeweled pieces from assorted Saudis, subject of another wave of recrimination, and they have received boxes of cookies shaped like elephants, plus crocheted Old Glories, a bowling ball and other objects which sooner or later will become property of the U.S. government.

So far, there is no evidence that anybody in the Nixon family asked the Saudis, "Hey, how about some of them jewels you guys buy?" One can be sure that the gifts were totally unsolicited, just as was the baby Julius Caesar gave to Queen Cleopatra. For the Nixons to say, "Get outta here, you crazy guys in those nightgowns, we don't want your bawbles," could have strained relations between the country with the mostest oil and the country with the mostest users of oil. Might have led to almost anything: for example, they might have stopped buying daily Cadillacs.

Thai Premier, Cabinet Resign

Wednesday, May 22, 1974 The Lincoln Star 5

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Thailand's civilian-dominated government resigned Tuesday, eight months after it swept to power on the crest of a student rebellion against the military dictatorship. A military alert was declared throughout the country.

Reliable observers said the resignation of Premier Sanya Thammasak and his 28-member cabinet was not expected to have a major immediate impact on the country's political course.

The 67-year-old premier sent a letter to King Bhumipol Adulyadej asking for termination of his government. Sanya was scheduled to go before a nationwide television audience Wednesday, when the resignation is effective, possibly to explain his actions.

The government apparently was the victim of growing pressure and criticism from various segments of Thai society, a recent dispute in the country's educational establishment and possibly its own idealism.

Observers said the king might well ask Sanya to form a new government. Two other possible candidates for the leadership are the minister of justice, Prakorn Huthasing, and the speaker of the National Assembly, M.R. Kukrit Pramoj. Both are political moderates.

Some of the Thimisters in the ousted military regime are still in Bangkok. In declaring the nationwide alert, the commander in chief of the army and national security, Gen. Kris Srivara said it was "not a preparation for a coup." He described it as a precautionary measure.

Rumors that Sanya might resign began to circulate last week when the premier left Bangkok for an urgent audience with the king at one of his summer palaces in the countryside.

No details of the discussions have been released but there was speculation Sanya and the king discussed the tendered resignation of Deputy Education Minister Boonsom Martin. Boonsom submitted his resignation 10 days ago because the ministry could not settle a dispute involving private school teachers.

Sanya, who has not acted on the resignation letter, has publicly stated in the past that if any cabinet member resigned he would do likewise "since we are in this together."

Sanya, a former university rector, has also been criticized by the students for failing to keep his promise for a new constitution and a national election within six months of the time he took office.

Some segments of the public have said Sanya's civilian-dominated cabinet was too weak in dealing with crime and strikes. In addition, there has been a vigorous rejuvenation of political life and outspokenness on the part of the press and the public.

Some of this has created considerable stress on Sanya, a highly respected, idealistic educator who is generally not considered a tough practical politician.

Students warned the public that there might be attempts at a military coup. The National Student Center of Thailand called on the people to unite in resisting any attempts by "any group of men who may want to take this opportunity to bring back military rule."

U.S. May Sell Arms To Egypt On Request

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger said Tuesday the United States would consider "sympathetically" any Egyptian request to buy U.S. arms.

Previously, Schlesinger has limited himself to a more non-committal statement that the possibility of selling arms to Egypt "should be carefully examined."

The question arose at a meeting between Schlesinger and a group of reporters.

of India's first nuclear test explosion, Schlesinger said, "I think that the development, the spread of nuclear weapons, is potentially devastating." However, he noted that India said its test did not involve a bomb.

—Blamed House defeat of an administration request for increased military aid to South Vietnam principally on disaffection because of the Watergate issue. Generally speaking, Schlesinger said, "The present discontents are not particularly helpful in gathering up the votes that are necessary to get the bills across."

—Warned that the only way the United States could reduce its overseas forces by 100,000 men, as proposed in a House amendment, "is by emasculating our presence in the Far East."

Allied Ups Pay 4% — Morris Township, N.J. (UPI) — Allied Chemical Corp. has granted all salaried workers a 4% across-the-board pay increase effective June 1. About 11,000 workers are affected.

The defense secretary said he did not believe the United States has received any Egyptian request to buy U.S. weapons. Aides said Schlesinger does not yet know whether Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger will return from the Middle East with such an Egyptian bid.

Russia has been Egypt's source of arms since the late 1950s, but Egypt and Russia have drifted apart diplomatically in recent months as the United States and Egypt have drawn closer together.

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat was quoted about a month ago as saying, "If the United States is ready to sell the arms, I shall be very happy."

On other matters, Schlesinger —Indicated the United States might withdraw its commitment to protect India with nuclear weapons if India builds its own atomic arsenal. Asked his view Assassins To Hang — Kinshasa, Zaire (AP) — President Mobutu Sese Seko of Zaire says he will have 48 "assassins" hanged as part of a massive crackdown on violence in Kinshasa.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST
★ By SIDNEY OMARR ★
Forecast For Wednesday
The Gemini native is a motor, the mind going, going, often way ahead of the speech pattern. That is why Gemini often says things that are funny, out of sync, preposterous and, on occasion, threatening. Getting used to Gemini is not easy, at times impossible and generally foolish to attempt. Here are the talkers, politicians, reporters, photographers and comedians. How do you cope with your Gemini?

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Go slow. Light touch is necessary. Be flexible. Plans are subject to change. Leave details for another time. Charm wins; forcing methods result in setback. Aquarius, Leo and Scorpio persons could be in picture.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Study Aries message. Avoid expenditure which puts you in financial hole. Analyze offers. You may be giving up something of value for mere promise. Protect assets. Change occurs which costs money but will ultimately be worth it.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Partnership could dissolve. Be wary in signing legal documents. Joint efforts now could be confusing. Key is to strive for balance. Taurus, Libra persons may play significant roles. Sense of humor is required in wake of bizarre situation.
CANCER (June 21-July 22) Avoid self-deception. See situations, individuals as they really are, not merely as you wish they could be. What you seek is at a distance. Special correspondence may be required. Act accordingly. Perfect techniques.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Some hopes wishes will be revised. Be realistic. Obtain hint from Cancer message. Member of opposite sex could lead you on merry—and expensive—chase. Key is to be mature. Don't expect something for nothing.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Persons in positions of authority tend to respond now in indecisive manner. Head your own counsel. Know when something is a situation or relationship—has run its course. Aries, Libra persons play prominent roles.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) You gain glimmer of insight into person who had been a puzzle, a challenge and posed a dilemma. Your own creative resources come into play. You do rather than contemplate, you decide rather than procrastinate. Sense of communication is heightened.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) Caution now is your ally. You tend to leave valuables in places where they can be stolen. You tend to forget and to trust the "wrong" persons. This foreknowledge should aid in taking steps to protect possessions. Don't invite difficulty—it is only too willing to accept the invitation.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Study Scorpio message. Don't jump at first offer. Hold tight—be wary and observant. Check alternatives. Better proposition is on horizon. Know it and keep the faith. Male, partner makes discovery which can be turned into profit.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Avoid trying to accomplish too much simultaneously. Means concentrate efforts. Finish one task at a time. Otherwise forces are scattered and results less desirable. Aquarius, Leo and Scorpio individuals play important roles.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Romantic pursuits could be time consuming and costly. Avoid extravagance. Trying to "buy" your way would be an error. Know it and act accordingly. Be ready for change and a frank explanation from member of opposite sex.
PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) One who appears to turn "thumbs down" is merely waiting for a more appropriate time to flash green light. Be diplomatic. State case in calm, even manner. Then you will be pleasantly surprised by ultimate response.
IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are dynamic, sensitive, nervous, were on your own early in life. Possible loss of parents in physical or psychological sense indicated when you were relatively young. This month, May, should be one of your most significant of 1974. Scorpio persons play prominent roles in your activities.

HEALTH TIP
FROM THE NEBRASKA MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

Agricultural chemicals have many benefits, but may be dangerous, too, unless used properly.
The Nebraska Medical Association urges users of agricultural or garden chemicals to read the labels and follow the directions on each label explicitly.
If you do not understand the directions, call the chemical dealer, county agent or someone who can explain it clearly. Agricultural chemicals should be carefully stored, away from animals and unauthorized persons.
The old adage that "if a little is good, a little more must be better" is not true with chemicals. Companies spend much time and money testing chemicals to determine the proper method of application for maximum effectiveness, safety and economy.
Odd bits of leftover chemicals and nearly empty containers should be disposed of, rather than stored indefinitely. Burial is best, especially for toxic materials. Unless the label suggests burning, the Nebraska Medical Association says burning should be avoided because some chemicals give off harmful fumes and waste. Chemicals should never be poured on the ground or into a stream.

Tuition Rates Cut At Fairbury Tech College

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

Fairbury campus students of the Southeast Nebraska Technical Community College will pay a total of about $25 less per semester, beginning in the fall.

In adopting a new tuition and fees schedule for its three campuses, the college area board Tuesday lowered Fairbury tuition for full-time Nebraska students from $150 to $130. Tuition per credit hour for part-time study will be $12.

Milford campus students will pay the same tuition as currently, $84 per quarter. On the Lincoln campus, the board lowered quarterly tuition from $93 to $84.

Out-of-state students will pay double the tuition of Nebraska residents on all three campuses. Area President Robert S. Eicher asked for the tuition reductions on the recommendation of the Legislative Fiscal Analyst's office. SE Tech rates "were higher than most of the area schools in the state," he said.

Besides bringing the charges in line with other Nebraska schools, Eicher said that despite the loss in revenue, he believes the college will be able to generate projected income.

Standardization
The area president also pointed out that the board's action standardizes tuition and fees among the three SE Tech campuses for the first time.

The new schedule was approved 9-0, with board member Don Ferguson absent.

Also approved unanimously were a tuition refund schedule for the three campuses and a policy for tuition remissions (scholarships) and athletics.

SE Tech won a legislative allocation of $54,950, based on area population, from $250,000 in general funds through an amendment to LB1057, the budget bill passed by the 1974 Unicameral.

The board authorized Eicher's recommendations that $14,631, deleted earlier from the Fairbury campus budget, be replaced there, with $8,210 going for athletics excluding football, and $6,421 for other academic activities.

The remainder, $40,318, will be appropriated for tuition remissions. Of that total, the Milford and Lincoln campuses will each get $15,120 and Fairbury, $10,078.

Male-Female Ratio
The funds must be administered according to State Board of Technical Community College guidelines, which stipulate 60% must go for non-athletic activities, and incorporates a male-female ratio for remissions.

"It's another plus for us, having this money available to attract students," Eicher said, noting preference will be given to in-state students in awarding scholarships.

In other business, the board approved proposals for six new programs, five for the Lincoln campus and one at Fairbury, with projected first-year costs of $440,000.

The proposals, to begin in the 1975-76 school year, will now be sent to the State Tech College Board, and if approved there, must receive budget okay. Then the area board has the option of

Tech College Board Picks E. Copple

The Southeast Nebraska Technical Community College Area Board Tuesday appointed Edward Copple, Lincoln insurance executive, to fill a board vacancy created by Mrs. Fern Hubbard Orme, who resigned.

Copple, former long-time public schools Board of Education member, will serve until January on the governing board of the area college and its three campuses in Fairbury, Lincoln and Milford.

Copple was the only person nominated for the board seat, and members approved his appointment unanimously.

Dr. Blumel Will Head University

Portland, Ore. (UPI) — Dr. Joseph C. Blumel, 46, formerly vice president for academic affairs at Portland State University, Tuesday was named president of the school by unanimous vote of the State Board of Higher Education.

Blumel, a native of Kansas City, Mo., and graduate of the University of Nebraska in 1950, joined the Portland State faculty in 1957 as an instructor in economics. He became vice president in 1970.

finally approving or disproving them.

The new programs, their estimated first-year costs and enrollments include: Motorcycle technician, $58,709, 15 full-time, 150 part-time; graphics communication technology, $203,658, 20 full-time, 40 part-time; respiratory therapy technician, $33,994, 10 full-time; radiologic technology, $72,312, 10 full-time; agri-business occupations, $61,412, 18 full-time, 35-100 part-time. Agri-business at Fairbury was projected at $10,000 for 10 full-time students.

Cost To Dip
Costs for the new programs would go down during the second year and up in the third, according to the proposals.

The board rejected a lease for office space in the Indian Village Shopping Center, 13th & High. The college has been seeking space in which to relocate its area office, now in a Lincoln campus building.

Board members considered but took no action on 3,000 square feet of office space at 56th & South for $800 monthly rent. Administrators will continue to seek rental space for the board's consideration next month.

Eicher said offices of the Lincoln campus will be removed from the Public Schools Administration Building to probably either Whittier Center, 2240 Vine, or Bryan School, 1701 S. 40th, of the Lincoln campus after July 1.

Eicher reported that the house built by Milford campus building construction students will be sold to the highest bidder at auction on June 6.

He spiked rumors that the house would be sold at cost — about $16,000 — to the Milford Chamber of Commerce to use as a medical clinic staffed by Seward Clinic doctors.

Board member Alan Dunlap of Milford said he expects the house will be sold at about the same average rate as in past years, $23,000, which goes back into the SE Tech general fund.

The board discussed but took no action on a recommendation by the State Tech College Board that all six college areas share the $6,000 expense of a lawsuit challenging the constitutionality of the colleges' financing.

Case On Appeal

The case filed by Sheridan County is on appeal before the Nebraska Supreme Court. The county contends since the state can no longer levy a property tax, the colleges cannot levy a one-mill property tax to support the system.

A lower court ruled in favor of the colleges.

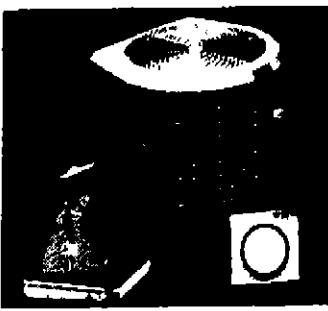

Dunlap questioned the legality of SE Tech paying $1,000 toward the suit "when we're not a party" named, and services were performed for the Western Nebraska Technical Community College Area.

Board chairman Merle Ebers of Seward also objected to the payment.

The board officially recessed, rather than adjourning Tuesday, but set its next formal meeting for June 18 at 1 p.m. in the Bryan Center, 1701 S. 40th.

County To Study Drainage Problem

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

Residents of the West A area were told Tuesday that the Lancaster County Board would look into the situation of standing water and water draining from one residential area into another in the vicinity.

Dale Rediger of Rt. 6 told the commissioners that there is a need for more adequate water control in the area of West A which is a county road.

However, County Engineer Walter Hoppe and Chief Deputy Henry Graff noted that the new developments came long after the drainage culverts were installed.

Graff said he felt that it was a matter to be resolved between the residents of one area and the developers of the other area allegedly from where the water was draining onto the complaining residents' property.

He said he didn't see it as a county problem.

Commissioners raised the question as to why the City-County Planning Department would approve development in an area where drainage might create problems.

In other business, the board was asked to provide $16,732 in local funds to move the responsibility of the Council on Alcoholism and Drugs to the local level.

Don Nielsen told the board that funds totaling $57,045 are available providing $16,732 can be raised locally for the program.

The board requested one week to study the proposal.

After hearing the Planning Department's report recommending against the annexation, the board also deferred action on the petition to attach about 280 acres two miles south of So. 40th and Highway 2 to Rural Water District No. 1.

In other action, the board:

- Deferred action on the Lancaster County 4-H Council proposal for use of revenue sharing funds
- Approved the application of Robert and Barbara Heaton for a bottle club and off-sale-beer license
- Disapproved the Department of Agriculture request for a 1974-75 predator control program
- Referred to the county attorney the claim for refund of taxes by the Catholic Bishop of Lincoln on property acquired in August after Jan. 1 assessment day
- Approved the request of T. Clement Gaughan to add a storeroom to the presently-licensed premises
- Deferred action on Chien Enterprises request for final payment on contract for fire code requirements at Traber Hall, etc.
- Referred to an advisory the request by the County Employees Assn. for a comprehensive study on the entire county retirement plan.

County Apparently To Follow State Plan

Although no decision was made, it appeared Tuesday that Lancaster County commissioners would uphold the state's recommendation for conducting a reappraisal of real estate in the county with county forces.

County Assessor Fritz Meyer said he would go along with the plan if a complete reappraisal is what the county wants and the board is willing to spend the money for it.

However, he contended that an update of the reappraisal completed in 1970, for which the county spent about $400,000, would be a greater savings to taxpayers.

He said this was the plan he proposed last year when he submitted a budget item of $70,000 which the county board deleted from his budget and transferred to the county commissioners' miscellaneous fund until determination could be made of what method should be used to update the reappraisal.

State Tax Commissioner William Peters said he was not opposed to the multiple regression plan proposed by Meyer but had some reservations about there being sufficient information on the real estate cards now used by the county to make the update effective.

Peters said the plan that his office proposes, as set forth by law, includes using new state manuals and reassessing each parcel of real estate in the county.

He estimated completion of that plan for Lancaster County would take about two and a half years and a maximum of three. County Atty. Paul Douglas asked how this plan would be any improvement over the prior reappraisal which took three years to complete and was outdated by the time it was completed.

Peters and Joe Vick contended that if the new plan is properly carried out this will not become a problem because no property value would be set until all inspections are complete.

Vick estimated that to implement the plan for Lancaster County would require about five more appraisers plus other staff people for a total cost of between $4-$5 a parcel.

Meyers said he didn't believe the job, with paying five appraisers $11,000-$14,000 a year each as recommended by the state, could be done for as little as $5 a parcel.

Red Caboose, 80, Will Retire To Crestwood Christian Church

A red caboose, age 80, will retire this week from the Burlington-Northern Railroad to the Crestwood Christian Church yard.

The antique car has become the church's attempt to provide a different kind of place for the public.

It will be a historical museum, the closest thing to a meeting hall it could be under city regulations, according to Don Hogenson, church board chairman and assistant superintendent at Burlington-Northern.

"It started about three months ago when some artist members of our church mentioned they were looking for a different kind of place to work in," he said. "They just threw out a caboose as a casual suggestion."

One of 31 Hogenson only later learned that caboose #14261, one of only 31 remaining 1894 cabooses, was sitting in the Havelock area.

"I like old things, I like saving them," he said.

Since the caboose had just been left to decay, Hogenson and the church decided to use it.

It will be a museum on a 4½-acre lot at 8000 A St. owned by the church.

To Be Locked

Hogenson said it must be kept kept locked because of vandalism, but anyone interested in touring the restored caboose need only call the church for a key, he said.

Hogenson predicted it will be very popular with children.

"You wouldn't believe how many requests we get here (in the rail yards) from children who want to go in trains. We love having them, but of course, we hold our breath the whole time they're here," he said.

The red caboose will offer the children a safe train tour, he said.

Meeting Place Plans

Although the church originally planned the caboose would be a meeting place, Hogenson said it did not meet city sanitation, heating and electrical requirements.

The caboose will be moved to the church yard later this week by John Lacey, owner of the Big L Construction Emergency Railroad Service of Shelton — free of charge.

Besides giving the church the caboose, Burlington-Northern has also promised to install railroad tracks where the caboose is to stand.

Hogenson said everything, so far, has been donated to the church.

"Now all we need is some wire to go around the caboose," he said.

Health Planners Get HMO Update

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

The health maintenance organization (HMO) is the most sophisticated system yet devised to counter expensive health care costs, a federal Health, Education and Welfare Department official said in Lincoln Tuesday night.

Alan S. Bestall, of HEW's Health Maintenance Organization Services in Kansas City, advised the Lancaster County Health Planning Council of its role in reviewing proposed HMOs, criteria for which were established in a federal law passed last December.

The Community Health Care Association Inc. is currently undertaking a feasibility study of an HMO in Lincoln.

Covers All Aspects

An HMO, Bestall said, includes all aspects of health care, from emergency services to ongoing care to prevention. In devising alternate health delivery systems, he said it's important for the council to know how to put the parts together effectively.

For example, an HMO could have participation by a public health department, physicians and physical therapy services, all to be determined by the organizers. Historically, systems similar to HMOs have included ambulatory care and in-patient care, and demphasized care by doctors.

Bestall stressed that the HMO is "not a government idea;" rather, it was founded as early as 1950 in Oklahoma and is supported widely by unions and industry as the best way to contain health costs.

Cheaper Services

The HMO cuts back on expensive services, such as hospitalization, and emphasizes cheaper services, such as ambulatory care using paraprofessionals, he said.

"There are no official HMOs in the U.S. now," Bestall said, pointing out one has yet to be certified by HEW. He explained that an HMO "is not subsidized care;" no federal money pays for its operation.

Bestall warned the health planning council against "HMO-like organizations" that don't soundly integrate health services, and against which there is no consumer protection from the federal government.

Don't Want Failures

"We don't want any failures" of HMO's, he said, submitting that establishment of one requires the commitment of an entire community. Bestall said an HMO must be accessible to all citizens, contain costs, and not duplicate existing services.

Bestall met with the Community Health Care Association, and representatives from the five Lincoln hospitals, Lancaster County Welfare Dept. and Medical Society on Tuesday to discuss HMOs.

In regular business, the health planning council voted 7-5 to offer assistance to the City Council regarding who should have the final authority in procedures to make rate changes at Lincoln General Hospital.

The City Council has approved an overall rate increase of about 10% in charges at the publicly-administered hospital. The health planning council action stemmed from confusion over whether rate-change authority is vested in the hospital board of trustees, the City Council or a combination of both.

Get Draft Report

Council members responded to a draft report on emergency medical services by the Southeast Nebraska Health Planning Council, rating priorities to be announced later.

Water Report Progress

Masters also reported that the environmental health task force report on water quality in the Lower Platte River Basin has been partially integrated with the State Natural Resources Commission water quality management study.

A public hearing will be held on the plan, done in conjunction with the Lower Platte South Natural Resources District, at 7 p.m. June 5 in the Lincoln Center Building, 15th & N.

The plan emphasizes methods of consumption and safeguarding available water, and encourages more aggressive action in wastewater treatment.

The Lancaster County Health Planning Council annual meeting will be held at noon on June 18 in the Lincoln Center Building.

6 Scout Council Volunteers Win Silver Beaver Awards

Six adult volunteers from the Boy Scout Cornhusker Council received Silver Beaver awards, the highest award a local council can give, at an annual recognition program Tuesday in Lincoln.

They were Lawrence Dittmar of Seward, Don McPherson of Adams, and James R. Cusick, Dennis J. Lyon, Russell J. Reinig and Virginia Woodrum, all of Lincoln.

Cusick has been involved in Boy Scouts since he was 9 years old. He has been in troop, pack and district activities for 41 years.

Cusick is director of purchasing for Lincoln Public Schools.

He is a member of the Order of the Arrow and Council activities chairman.

Dittmar has been involved in scouting in Colorado and Nebraska. He is a member of the Cornhusker Council, and the District Leadership Training Committee.

Dittmar is an elementary school teacher in Seward.

Lyon, a Lincoln architect, has participated in scouting from scout to scoutmaster levels.

He has received the Vigil Award, Order of the Arrow, and is responsible for designing many of the buildings in the 1970 camp building program.

McPherson, a rural mail carrier, has worked in scouting since 1957.

He is currently a member of the Council Nominating Committee and the Council Silver Beaver Committee.

Reinig began as an adult scoutmaster in Grand Island and has been active in Neligh and Lincoln as well.

Reinig, who sits on the curriculum advisory board of the Southeast Nebraska Technical Community College, served on training committees and district roundtable, as Cub commissioner and in neighborhood commissioner positions.

Ms. Woodrum, served as a den leader and coach of Pack 75 for 13 years. She has been on the district membership committee, reorganizing Cub Scout packs.

She is now Unit Commissioner with District 6.

Consumer Champion Leads In Pennsylvania

Harrisburg, Pa. (UPI) — Herbert Denenberg, a consumer champion who campaigned on a promise to "shake up Washington," held a narrow statewide lead Tuesday night over Pittsburgh Mayor Peter F. Flaherty in the Democratic race for a U.S. Senate nomination in the Pennsylvania primary.

Gov. Milton J. Shapp, in his bid for a second term, swept to a resounding victory over State Rep. Martin P. Mullen to win the Democratic nomination for governor.

With 32% of the 9,560 precincts reporting, Denenberg had 140,192 votes while Flaherty had 134,083.

Only 28% of the registered Democrats in Philadelphia showed up at the polls, but with nearly all of the 1,776 precincts reported Denenberg had 95,659 votes to Flaherty's 77,329.

The loss in Philadelphia could spell trouble for Flaherty. He had counted on a small turnout and party organization support to give him a victory.

Flaherty received a big plurality in Allegheny County to offset Denenberg's surprising showing in Philadelphia, the former state insurance commissioner's hometown.

Drew Lewis, the Republican-endorsed candidate for governor, easily defeated two opponents to share the GOP ticket with Sen. Richard S. Schweiker.

Camp Pendleton Marines Boost Town's Crime Rate

•The New York Times

Oceanside, Calif. — This resort city of 52,000 at the entrance to the Marine Corps' sprawling Camp Pendleton is seeking government help in combating an epidemic of murders and a soaring crime rate that it attributes largely to the lawlessness of a "new breed" of young Leathernecks.

The Justice Department's Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, which has sent two investigators here, is considering the city's request for a $1.2 million grant to deal with what Police Chief War Radcliff called "a groundswell of crime that has had a stunning effect upon our city."

standards and we are wasting no time in weeding them out," said Brig. Gen. Robert L. Nichols, commander of the 125,000-acre base that stretches for 17 miles along the Pacific shore from Oceanside to the Western White House at San Clemente.

Chief Radcliff said the city's crime problem came from not merely a few incorrigibles but was aggravated by "a whole new breed of Marines made up largely of the dregs and sweepings of the streets."

During the last nine months around 1,000 Camp Pendleton

Marines, including a few commissioned officers, have received less than honorable "administrative" discharges, more than 800 of them after being arrested in the town.

Oceanside's crime rate has increased 36% in a year, to rival New York, Los Angeles and many other cities. It is nearly double the over-all California rate. Homicides have more than tripled with Marines involved in 7 of 10 killings last year. In a two-week period this year, Marines were accused of committing two of three murders.

Don't Let Friends Be 'Spaced Out'

By GLENDA DANIEL

The astronauts are not the only ones who can have problems with space.

Almost anyone can, and not even realize it. Do you find it hard to keep a conversation going when friends visit for an evening? Could be space.

Or do you find yourself fighting with your mother-in-law when you are doing the dishes after dinner? Could be space.

"There are spaces which pull people together and spaces which drive them apart," says Dr. Edward T. Hall, an anthropologist at Northwestern University in Chicago. He has made a lifetime study of the uses of personal space.

"The house or apartment you've chosen and the way you decorate it can affect the way you get along with your spouse, your children, and the friends who come to visit," he said.

If the living room chairs and couches are pushed rigidly back against the four walls, they are probably too far apart to make conversation natural, he adds. A kitchen that is too small, on the other hand, will put cooks and cooks' assistants too close together for either comfortable conversation or work.

And if the house doesn't contain some private space for each family member — it may be no more than a chair — there are sure to be conflicts, according to Dr. Hall.

"We know from our studies," he continues, "that each person has around him an invisible bubble of space, which expands and contracts depending on his relationship to others, his emotional state, his cultural background and the activity he is performing at the time."

This bubble is a bit of mobile territory which only a few other organisms are allowed to penetrate and then only for short periods of time. Changes in the bubble induced by outside influences such as architecture may cause an individual to feel he has been forced into an aggressive relationship (cramped quarters) or that he has been sealed off and removed from human contact (compartmentalized spaces).

"Most people do not realize that space is not perceived by vision alone, but with all the other senses. There is auditory space which we perceive with the ears; thermal space perceived with the skin; kinesthetic space with muscles of the body; and olfactory space with the nose.

"Anyone who has ever lived in crowded quarters knows how irritating it is to be constantly bumped by other people, to feel their body heat and to be involved auditorially and olfactorily."

The anthropologist says some homes are designed so it is virtually impossible to hold social gatherings in them, while others seem to encourage people to interact in a lively manner.

Dr. Hall has made precise measurements of the "appropriate distances" at which people carry on different types of activities. These may vary from culture to culture but he believes they roughly represent spaces most middle class America would consider proper.

He divides his "appropriate distances" into four categories: intimate, personal, social and public.

If a zone is violated, a person may be uncomfortable or even feel threatened, he said. "If you don't believe there is any such thing as a culturally proper distance, try standing closer to a friend or fellow worker than you usually do in a casual conversation. He is almost certain to back away."

Each of his four classifications has an inside and outside point.

—Intimate distance, close phase, involves physical contact, dancing, fighting, lovemaking, wrestling, football pile-ups. In crowded elevators or subways strangers are huddled together in close-intimate distance. The result is readily apparent. Most people become tense, avoid eye contact, assume a rigid posture.

Six to 18 inches falls under the far phase of intimate distance. "This distance is acceptable at cocktail parties or seating arrangements for dinner parties or banquet. But don't let a business associate or sales person intrude in this zone."

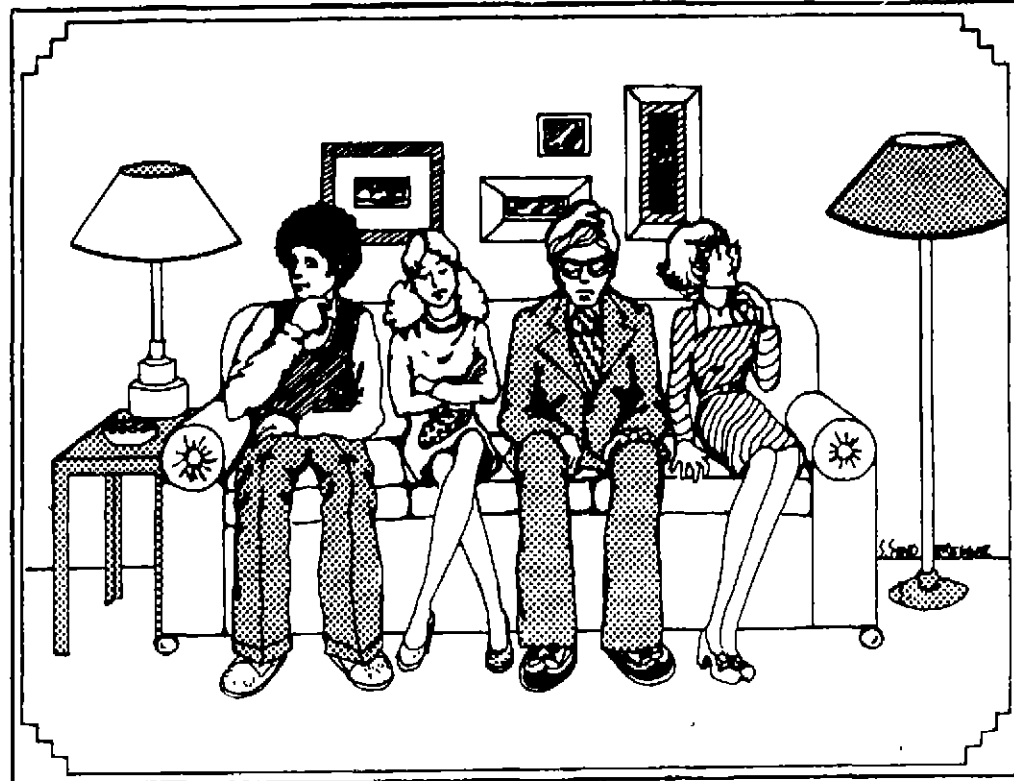

—Personal distance, close phase, ranges from one and a half to two and a half feet; far phase, from two and a half to four feet. "This is an acceptable distance for friendly confidences. It would be fine for a coffeeklatch, for instance. The distance is still close, but not embarrassingly so for people who aren't really intimate."

—Social distance, close phase, ranges from four to seven feet; far phase, from seven to 12 feet. The close phase is an impersonal yet friendly, informal distances, more like a day-to-day relationship. The far phase is more reserved, for formal encounters at work and at social occasions.

Actually, it is more of the public distance.

"At 12 feet, two people in the same room can conveniently talk or ignore one another," says Dr. Hall. "But put these same people at a distance of eight or nine feet and they feel compelled to talk."

This is where the housewife's arrangement of furniture is important. "She should be aware that she can create any effect she desires. Chick Young in the Dagwood and Blondie comic strip does a lovely job of showing how both husband and wife can have privacy and the illusion of a lot of space in one tiny room. Their chairs are placed back to back."

A good hostess can create conversation. Don't have a long couch without chairs at right angles to it for "people seated in a row on a couch have no natural eye contact with each other and therefore are not inclined to engage in conversation," says Dr. Hall.

And architectural details are important, he adds.

"A nine-foot ceiling is comfortable for almost everyone. Eight-foot ceilings make some people a little nervous. If you aren't overly conscious of the ceiling when you're looking straight ahead, it is probably high enough," he said.

All the spaces in a home are important to human activity, says Dr. Hall, yet many are badly designed. A kitchen, for example, should satisfy workspace and visual needs. However, the majority of designers are men who have seldom if ever prepared a meal.

"Architects forget that women have daughters, mothers and friends, all of whom sooner or later want to be helpful," said Dr. Hall. As most women know, nothing is more infuriating than to be constantly bumped as you try to prepare a meal."

He cites Archie Bunker's house on the TV program as handling space very realistically, and also illustrating some of his space points.

"Remember the big deal Archie makes if 'Meathead' tries to sit in his chair? The Bunker kitchen is ideal, not only for several cooks but for confidences between family members."

If people understand about the space around them and how it affects them, says Dr. Hall, they can do a better job of planning their environment, and make living a little easier.

So She Slept And Slept

Editor's Note: Today's Write On is about Angela Rose Andler, now 10 weeks old. It was written by her mother, who finds writing "a field for creativity."

By LORI ANDLER

The crisis of too much energy was my main concern as I tried to muster the courage to take our six-week-old daughter on a plane trip. A second difficulty arose in the attempt to find an airline whose motto happened to be "Fly the Crying Skies."

Two minutes after she was born, our daughter placed 8 on a 1 to 10 activity scale. By the ripe old age of five minutes she had broken the balance on the scale.

Even while nursing, our prima ballerina manages a horizontal version of the rumba that would make Fred Astaire wave good-bye to Ginger Rogers.

Her lungs are no less actively developed. Having received more music boxes than bibs and booties for baby gifts, our little angel readily learned to coo in tune. Unless, that is, she chooses not to hear a particular song at a particular moment, in which case she could drown out not only the tune but also the sounds of a major metropolis.

And then there are the memories of her pre-natal acrobatic achievements. I would watch and feel amazed at the ease with which she carried out a one-man volleyball game while still within me.

After her birth, we immediately considered signing her up as an Olympic shoulder vaulter. And if Ripley has a believe-it-or-not record for pogo-stick jumping, she could break it — without the aid of the pogo-stick.

With this knowledge at my disposal, I still couldn't resist the opportunity to take our precious new arrival back to display to the families and friends my husband's job had transferred us 800 miles away from during our fifth month of pregnancy.

I decided it was worth the risk. No one at home could possibly imagine her beauty or believe the wonders of her talents unless they saw them firsthand.

If worse came to worse I could always recourse to the plane's restroom with her. That should be semi-soundproof. And I doubt that seat is any more expensive.

Since I carried her milk with me, there was no worry of juggling bottles or need to resort to the method of appeasement my mother once discovered while traveling with a 15-month-old.

Then, the stewardess happened to have an abundant supply of olives and cherries which my little sister depleted somewhere between Miami and Detroit. Before landing, her green eyes had developed red pupils and her nose grew a pit.

Before I had time for second thoughts the agent was announcing, "United flight #619 . . . Lincoln to Chicago . . . now boarding at Gate 4."

"Shhhhhh," I whispered, hoping her restfulness would last until we were too high for the pilot's conscience to allow him to bail us out.

At 34,000 feet, she still didn't know she had left home. Even my sudden panic and near hysteria when we hit a rumbling air pocket failed to budge her.

After landing in Chicago she managed a sleepy little smile for her Daddy before he caught his cab for the business meetings he was there to attend.

She and I perched in the terminal for our hour-long wait for our flight to Detroit. I almost had to shake her awake on that flight to prove to the stewardess that she wasn't Mattel's latest model for Sleeping Susie.

The transfer from the plane to the car went unnoticed. When we were within walking distance of my folks' home, I saw the mystery hidden by her eyelids shortly before we left home over five hours and 800 miles earlier.

Aside from the fact that my arms got a little cramped, it was one of the most pleasant, care-free trips I've experienced.

And also one of the most profitable . . . I learned a valuable lesson in the tolerance of dotting parents.

Some people really do have kids worth bragging about!

Agencies Spread VD Facts

Editor's Note: This is the third in a four-part series examining the history, symptoms, cure and educational attempts of venereal disease.

By GRACIA McANDREW
Star Staff Writer

"We concentrate on the fact that VD is a communicable disease, rather than dwell on the fact that it has sexual implications," explained Roberta Sward of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension Service, who, with the assistance of state health agents, has developed a lesson on venereal disease for use by clubs throughout the state.

"The lesson, 'The Truth About VD,' is available to any of the clubs in the state, but the majority of those that use it are home extension clubs," Mrs. Sward continued.

The UNL Extension Service is one of many community agencies which recently has assumed the responsibility of creating more public awareness in regard to venereal disease, and at the same time provide some sort of VD education.

"So far, we've had a generally favorable response to the lesson on VD," Mrs. Sward pointed out. "Clubs in 56 Nebraska counties have used the lesson (there are other lesson programs the clubs may select) and 10,668 club members heard the lesson in 1973.

"VD is a difficult topic for people to deal with, especially with 75% of the (extension club) members being over 40-years-old.

"We go into the history and social aspects of venereal disease and point out that gonorrhea is the second most communicable disease — second only to the common cold," she said.

Other facts based on Mrs. Sward's research and included in the lesson are: One out of 20 women between the ages of 20 and 24 has gonorrhea and is unaware of it; there is actually four times as many cases as the number reported; the largest increase in reported cases has been in the white population; $40 million a year is spent for the care of the syphilitic insane, while only $7 million a year is spent for VD education.

"Another approach to the subject is also used," Mrs. Sward continued. "Since most of the women in the clubs are about 40-years-old, they're not the primary targets of venereal disease.

"The highest rates lie in the 15 to 25 age group. Yet, we felt these women were the parents of children and they are concerned with the community in which they live.

"It's hard to get into a framework where you're not moralizing," she pointed out. "We're not here to judge whether or not to have extra or premarital sex — we're here to talk about a communicable disease, how to handle it" and how to dispell "any ignorance, superstitions and misconceptions about how it is contracted."

"One purpose of the program is to encourage further VD education in the schools," the project leader noted. "We're changing so rapidly, so it is an uncomfortable position for many adults — but it's uncomfortable for the youth too. They're really confused.

"The average parent of teenagers rarely discusses VD with their children. And often there is the inability of adults to perceive children as sexual beings."

Other community groups initiating VD awareness programs include the American Legion, the Nebraska Jaycees and the American Pharmaceutical Association of Nebraska.

Perhaps the most extensive of the three is the "VD Attack Plan," to be conducted under the auspices of the Nebraska Jaycees.

"Little has been done so far," said Nebraska Jaycee chairman Sam Seever of Superior. "Venereal disease has been made a three-year priority program of the United States Jaycees."

Currently, a well-organized and factual folder of venereal disease is being distributed to JC chapters throughout the country.

According to Ray Griffin, of Aurora the American Legion's responsibility lies in coordinating activities and programs with the State Department of Health.

According to Cora Mae Briggs, executive secretary of the American Pharmaceutical Association, Nebraska pharmacists are always available for counseling and speaking engagements. However, their primary involvement at the present time is to disseminate information concerning venereal disease.

Diet Plan Substitutes Listed

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN
This is the day when folks travel light. I am thinking of both luggage and body weight. The experienced globe trotter is not burdened with lots of luggage. She has learned to correlate her wardrobe so that this is unnecessary. She does not wish to spend hours packing and unpacking.

A woman who is dreaming of a vacation frequently indulges in preventive measures, such as losing a few pounds so she can be guilt-free when eating the gourmet food she may encounter.

Actually, when on vacation, anything she doesn't have to cook is apt to taste great! If you start out a few pounds overweight, it is certain to balloon.

I bring you my Nine-Day Reducing Diet (which gives you a loss of from five to ten pounds in nine days) at this time of year in order to help you get ready for summer fun and vacations. This is the seventh day of this diet. If you missed some of the menus, or failed to cut them out, the entire diet is available in a booklet.

Today let me give you a list of fruits and vegetables you can substitute for any you do not like, in cases you wish to repeat the diet at some future date.

Substitute List
Vegetables: Asparagus — 10 spears, limas — ¼ cup, string beans — scant cup beets — (2) — 2 inches in diameter, cabbage — one scant cup, carrots — two young ones, celery — six stalks, cauliflower — one cup, lettuce — one medium head, peas — 1/3 cup, spinach — one cup, squash — one cup, tomatoes, raw — one to 1½ medium, tomatoes, canned — one cup, turnips — one cup, all greens are similar to spinach

Fruits: Apples — one medium or ½ cup unsweetened sauce, bananas — ½ medium, grapefruit — ½, oranges — one large, peaches — one medium, pears — one, pineapple, fresh — ½ cup, plums — two, prunes — two, tangerines — one, ½ cup cantaloupe, ½ cup honey-dew melon

Menus for Tomorrow
Breakfast: ½ grapefruit, one boiled egg, one slice of whole wheat toast, black coffee or tea with lemon.

Lunch: Chicken sandwich, 2 thin slices of whole wheat bread, 2 thin slices chicken (with mustard), a sliced tomato or canned tomato, one glass skimmed milk.

Dinner: ½ (6 oz.) broiled rockfish, perch or shad roe, salad of shredded cabbage and carrots, diet dressing, ½ cup cooked greens with vinegar, ½ grapefruit, one glass skimmed milk.

My low-cost Nine-Day Diet will reduce you but not your pocketbook. Wouldn't you like to lose from 5 to 10 pounds in nine days? For the complete diet and directions in a booklet, send 25 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Balance of Color Makes The Flower Arrangement

CIRCULAR . . . arrangement uses roses, daisies and asters.

By LINDA OLIG
Star Staff Writer

The balance of color in a round arrangement is as important as the symmetry of the flowers.

So said Chandler Tyrrell, Lincoln florist, at the third of four "Living With Flowers" workshops held Tuesday at Sheldon Memorial Art Gallery. The flower arranging clinics are sponsored by the Nebraska Art Association.

"Color is of the utmost importance . . . It completely makes the arrangement," Tyrrell said.

He recommended using flowers of monochromatic tones. "Monochromatic arrangements can be so dramatic and so beautiful, no matter what the color family," he said, emphasizing that moods and sensations are derived from the use of color.

However, "line and perspective sense," combined with color sense, always is a must in flower arrangements.

The round nosegay arrangements were made in monochromatic tones of lavender, purple, orchid and pink.

The monochromatically correct assortment of flowers used by the florist and his students in creating round arrangements included: three pink roses, six pink daisies, five lavender asters, two purple asters, two or three pink variegated miniature carnations, several stalks of lavender and dark pink statice and five fronds of fashion or leather-leaf fern.

The flowers were arranged in a footed container.

The step-by-step instructions for arranging the round bouquet were:

1. Cut and soak a rectangular piece of hydrofoam or oasis (the spongy material into which the flowers will be inserted).
2. Place the hydrofoam into the container on its side, lengthwise, so that it is approximately three inches above the top of the container. Bend a small, rectangular piece of chicken wire over the hydrofoam
- (this will help keep the flowers in place). Secure the hydrofoam and chicken wire by running a piece of florist's tape across and to the sides of the container, leaving the greatest amount of the hydrofoam uncovered.
3. Break the side pieces off the fronds of leather-leaf fern, inserting them into the hydrofoam in a circular fashion (letting them droop over the sides of the container) to establish the line and rhythm of the bouquet.
4. To establish the height and center of the arrangement, place one of the pink variegated miniature carnations in the center of the hydrofoam. The flower should be the same distance from the top of the bowl as the bowl is high.
4. Insert one of the purple asters at each end of the long ends of the hydrofoam, the same length as the ferns. Keep them low and close to the container
5. Insert the two pink asters into the hydrofoam, perpendicular to the purple asters.
6. Trim foliage from the six daisies. (Save the foliage for filling in when the arrangement is nearly completed.) Insert three of the daisies on the top of the hydrofoam, surrounding, but lower than, the carnation. The remaining three should be scattered symmetrically just above the asters. Constantly be alert to preserving the circular shape of the arrangement!

7. Carefully bend back the outer petals on the rosebuds to give them added fullness. Trim foliage and thorns from the stems. Insert the roses alternately with the three higher daisies.
8. Begin to fill the arrangement with leftover daisies and rose foliage, particularly around the center carnation.
9. Finally, fill in the open spaces with leftover fern, asters and daisies, then with statice.

As a footnote, Tyrrell pointed out that too much filling in of open spaces will destroy the individualism of the flowers and may detract from the beauty of the completed bouquet.

Happy Pagan Now Happier Christian

By NANCY HICKS
Star Women's Editor

"For three generations we had been happy pagans," said Mini Jane Johnston, as she explained how God can give a person identity, motivation and direction in his or her life.

"You don't miss what you don't know. I didn't know how to trust God. He was just a blob to me . . . without a face, without hands. I didn't know how He could communicate with me," said Miss Johnston, discussing her life before she let God in.

Urging the members of the Christian Women's Clubs (CWC) to let God into their lives and to let "Him take over the controls," the inspirational speaker said God can do what we can't do for ourselves — complete forgiveness and conquering death.

"I never remember being allergic to God. I just didn't know anything about Him," she said of her earlier life in a happy and secure family.

But when she opened up the door to her life to let God in, no bells rang.

"There doesn't have to be a lot of fanfare in the delivery room to be born into the family of God," she said. "Sometimes it's so quiet or unemotional you don't know you've been born"

But the next morning she knew something had happened because her first immediate thoughts were of God. She had become a brand new person — inside, she explained.

The inner conflict of individuals, said Miss Johnston, author of the just-published book, "Identity," is a conflict between age and God.

"If you want God to be the manager, you have to step down from the control seat. Then we become people who cooperate with God, not robots."

She also asked the women to use the Bible as a roadmap.

In addition to letting God lead their lives, she also suggested to the mothers, "Don't try to do for your children what God can do."

Miss Johnston, who speaks across the nation, also spoke Tuesday evening at the Christian Business and Professional Women's group and will give a talk Wednesday morning for a CWC brunch.

She will also be in Lincoln, Wednesday, May 29, for a "Day of Inspiration" from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. at the Southwood Club House. There are no reservations and babysitting will be available. Women attending are asked to bring a salad for the salad luncheon.

Movement Shapes Youth Lifestyles

New York (UPI) — The women's liberation movement is creating a wide schism between women in college and those who do not have a college education. The college women embrace the new values associated with the women's movement. They see lib goals making it easier to combine career and marriage as something good. That fits with a lifestyle they see pleasing for themselves. The non-college women or blue collar working women usually have the least satisfying jobs instead of a career. Marriage means devoting their lives to the role of housewife and mother. They don't like the idea of women's lib casting doubt on the ability of women to achieve potential through the wife and mother roles. The schism is documented in a major new survey of the values, goals, motivations of American youth, 16 to 25. The study, by the veteran youth-poll-taking Yankelovich organization, also found that women's movement is one of the major forces shaping youth styles of the seventies. A capsule version of the study "Changing Youth Values in the Seventies" was released in New York Tuesday. The full report will be issued in the fall by McGraw-Hill. The study drew support from many foundations including the John D.

Rockefeller 3rd fund, the Carnegie Corp. and the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation. The findings, involving an analysis of two-hour interviews with 3,500 subjects, also included these relating to women, women's liberation, and men. — "A majority of young people today believe that women should receive equal pay for equal work, that women should be free to take the initiative in matters of sex, that men and women share the same essential human nature (in contrast to Freud's dictum that anatomy is destiny), and that women's relationships to other women are just as important as their relationship to men." — A majority reject the idea that women can do almost any job as well as a man can, and that women do not need men to be happy. — The young adults are equally divided on whether women are just as logical as men and whether the old saying about the women's place in the home is, or is not, nonsense. — They give little support to the idea that men should be physically strong or handy around the house. — They feel a man should be a good provider and hold strong moral views. A "Measure of Man" part of the survey provided a profile of the meaning of masculinity — with male and female subjects participating. Seventy-five per cent felt men should be concerned with women's sexual satisfaction. Sixty-three per cent thought a man should put the family before anything else. Fifty-nine percent said men should show women courtesy and respect. A man should keep his feelings under control, said 44%. But who wears the pants in the family — er, makes the decisions? Only 36% said it's man's work to make family decisions. On the good side for husbands, only 31% thought it was manly for a man to do housework.

Found; Real Girl Friday

DEAR ABBY: I was quite amused at the letter in your column from the secretary who objected to doing personal jobs for her boss and his family. She should have MY boss. I've been with him for 16 years. I get along fine with him, his wife, their five children — three of whom are now married. He feels (and I heartily agree) that I hired out to work eight hours a day, so if he wants me to do something other than straight secretarial work, I should do it. I have vacuumed his office, met planes, trains and buses, shopped for gifts for his wife, children and grandchildren, typed essays and term papers for his high school and college children, and even scouted for information for his wife when she was involved with the Junior League. I've gone to his home for dictation, have worked evenings, weekends and holidays, and have never felt that any of these duties were beneath my dignity as a secretary. Oh, we've had our differences, but I've never refused to do anything he's asked me to do, and he's never asked me to do anything immoral or illegal. I love my job, he's a wonderful boss, and the pay is exceptional. HAPPY IN DALLAS DEAR HAPPY: I'm glad the pay is exceptional because you certainly are. DEAR ABBY: This is to thank you for publishing that hilarious column in which you included all those formal divorce announcements. I laughed until my sides ached. When our daughter was divorced two years ago, my husband and I went through all the agonies other parents endure when their married children divorce. ("Isn't there some way we can keep them together? The whole town is talking. What will we tell people?") Now we realize it wasn't all that tragic. Our daughter is soon to marry another man, and this one is a prince.

I just had to tell you that I got a wonderful laugh out of that column. I'm only sorry we didn't know such announcements were available two years ago. We'd have sent some. N.Y. POST READER DEAR READER: Thanks, I needed that. Not everyone saw the humor in that column, and to those who did not, I apologize. Read on: DEAR ABBY Recently you published some formal divorce announcements: "Mr. and Mrs. John Jones take pleasure in announcing the divorce of their daughter Alice from that slob she married in 1963, etc." Was that supposed to be funny? Perhaps I failed to see the humor of it because I am going through a heartbreaking divorce right now. Only last week I was in court when my husband walked in. I had all I could do to keep from going over to straighten his tie, and tell him he should have worn his pale blue shirt with that suit. We had been married for 28 years. I've lived more years with him than without him and this divorce still seems so unreal to me. (He asked for it. He has somebody else.) Anyway, I fail to see anything funny about divorce. At the bottom of your column it says, "You'll feel better if you get it off your chest." Well, I did, and I do. Thanks for listening. STILL HURTING IN L.A. This deal occurred in the U.S.-

Italy match in 1969. It features a striking illustration of topnotch defense. To begin with, Sidney Lazard of New Orleans, hero of the piece, got off to the killing lead when he chose the queen of spades as his first shot. Without a spade lead the Italian declarer would have made at least four notrump by establishing dummy's diamonds, but with it South found himself fighting an uphill battle. Declarer ducked the spade but was forced to win the continuation in dummy with the king. A diamond to the queen lost to the king and Lazard thereupon returned a spade to the ace, leaving dummy with no entry for the diamonds. Declarer played a club to the queen, which held, and led a second diamond, won by Lazard with the ace. Lazard exited with a club to South's ace, at which point this became the position: North ♥ 8 4 ♦ J 10 9 8 West ♥ J 10 6 5 ♦ 4 3 East ♠ 10 ♥ 9 3 2 ♣ K 9 South ♠ A K Q 7 ♥ 8 3 Madam Chairman MORNING Camp Fire Girls, training committee, 9:30 a.m., Room 427, Lincoln Center Bldg.; program committee, 9:30 a.m., Camp Fire Office. Declarer now cashed the A-K-Q of hearts, hoping to put West on lead with a fourth round of hearts and compel him to yield the last two tricks to dummy. But on the A-K-Q of hearts Lazard played the 5-10-J in that order, and when declarer then led the seven he found himself the unwilling winner of the trick. ## Track Weather Too Much For TV

Kansas track and field coach Bob Timmons called the 1974 season for his Jayhawks "a tough year" which ended on a happy note. Officials of the Nebraska Educational Television Network would tend to agree, although it didn't end on a happy note for them.

A scheduled telecast of last Saturday's meet, which had been planned for Wednesday and a repeat showing on Saturday, has been scrapped.

B. J. Keller, information specialist for the network, put out this release Tuesday: "The downpour of rain was so intense and the electrical storm so dangerous for our personnel and equipment that the producer was forced to cancel the coverage of the event."

It's too bad, too, because there were some interesting races that fans who didn't brave the weather would have enjoyed watching.

"We had injuries and problems, and for those reasons this is the most satisfying of the eight straight conference championships," Timmons said after the meet.

The "problems" he mentioned were the drug-related charges against two of his top stars who later were cleared. They were Mark Lutz, who came back to become the meet's outstanding performer, and high jumper Barry Schur, who repeated as Big Eight champion in his specialty.

Lutz' roommate was arrested and later convicted of selling drugs, but after investigation both Lutz and Schur and several others were cleared. Lutz, who took a lie detector test, said he never doubted he would be cleared, but not being able to compete was hard for him to accept.

"I never gave up, but there were times I thought I might as well," Schur said after the meet. When he finally got back, he hurt his foot in a meet at Wichita, which delayed his comeback.

Finally, here in Lincoln last Saturday, he said he felt the best he had since his suspension. "I was real ready," he said.

Catching Up On Sports

David Israel, sports writer for The Chicago Daily News, was in town last weekend researching for a book he plans to write on the history of Nebraska football.

Although he's a sports writer, he recently had an opportunity to be a football coach. He was one of several Chicago writers selected by Coach John Pont to guide the Northwestern team in its intrasquad spring game. Israel is 0-1.

Pont explained what happened: "We let the players draft teams for our spring game. One set of captains was a little bit smarter. They went for linemen, rather than the skill people, and their side won 39-15."

Pont, who will bring the Wildcats to Lincoln to face the Cornhuskers on Sept. 28, called the spring session "successful." Northwestern will be led offensively by quarterback Mitch Anderson and junior tailback Greg Boykin. "We're a better football team now than at the end of last year," Pont said. The Wildcats went 4-7 overall and 4-4 in the Big Ten.

To give Husker fans an idea, Nebraska beat Wisconsin, 20-16 in the final quarter while last year Northwestern lost to the Badgers in a real thriller, 36-34. The Wildcats scored 43 points against Minnesota, but yielded 52, in another wide-open affair.

Alliance Golf Club has been awarded the 1975 State Amateur July 21-26, according to Del Ryder, executive secretary of the Nebraska Amateur Golf Association. The State Match Play Tournament will be hosted by Offutt Air Force Base on the Capehart Golf Course June 28-29, while the State Junior Boys Championship will be held at Norfolk Country Club. That date hasn't been finalized.

Wagon Train Stays Open

Wagon Train State Recreation Area near Hickman will be open for the Memorial Day weekend after all, according to Willard Barbee, director of the Game and Parks Commission.

The lake was scheduled for treatment on Monday with chemicals to remove undesirable fish, but the operation was

Yarborough Back On Top

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Cale Yarborough's fifth victory of the season in last Sunday's Mason-Dixon 500 has put him back on top of the National Association For Stock Car Auto Racing (NASCAR) grand national point standings list.

Yarborough's victory in the race at Dover Downs, Del., gave him 848,340 overall points. He has won $120,395 in 12 races, including $15,300 Sunday.

Richard Petty, who had led the point standings, was leading the Mason-Dixon 500 until his engine failed four laps from the finish. He dropped to second in the point standings with 797,220 and also in money earnings with $102,685.

called off when tests showed water conditions at the lake were not favorable.

Trial applications of the chemical along the dam and in bays at Wagon Train over the weekend showed that it would not kill fish under present conditions in the lake. The chemical, antimycin, is influenced greatly by the alkalinity and temperature of the water. Fisheries biologists have found that Wagon Train's water is a bit cooler than is usual at this time of year, and is alkalinity is a bit higher. They feel that the chemistry and temperature may be more favorable in a few weeks.

Indy 500 Suit Filed

Action Could Delay Race

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — An attorney who said he represented seven racing car outfits Tuesday filed a suit in Marion County Superior Court seeking an injunction that could delay Sunday's 500-mile auto race and asking damages of more than $1 million.

One of the listed plaintiffs, racing car owner Grant King, promptly started a new rhuarby by charging that his name was included in the suit without his consent.

The suit, which charged "deviation from the standard of fair play," asked the court to bar the Indianapolis Motor Speedway and the United States Auto Club from conducting the race until and unless they reopen time trials so cars not in the present field of 33 will have a chance to qualify.

Attorney Don Tabbert filed the suit on behalf of car owners left waiting at the starting line last Saturday when qualifications for the annual classic were ended.

Time trials were cut to two days instead of four this year in the interest of conservation of energy. Rain shortened the qualifying period still further.

Superior Court Judge Frank Symes set a hearing for Wednesday morning on the request for an injunction.

King, who qualified a car when rookie Tom Sneva made the third row with a time of 185.147 miles per hour, said he did not authorize his name to be among the complainants. He said he would seek a lawyer's advice as to what action he could take.

"I don't want to do anything that would go against the Speedway and possibly jeopardize Sunday's race," he said.

Tabbert said his group would respect King's wishes and withdraw his name. He said it would be only a technicality to remove King's name and proceed with six plaintiffs instead of seven.

Tom Binford, USAC's chief steward for the race, predicted that the court action would not stop the race from being held Sunday.

He said "a judge will rule that they must have a chance to qualify, or to throw out the injunction (case). In either case, the decision will come before May 26."

The suit asked indefinite damages it said would total more than $1 million. Plaintiffs were listed as Roy Woods Racing, Rasmussen Racing Products, Grant King Racers, Carl Behlhausen, Larry McCoy Sr., K & L Racing Inc. and M. Webster of Webster Racing Inc.

"Prior to the commencement of the qualification trials, plaintiffs expended many thousands of dollars and many thousands of man hours in preparing their cars..." the suit said.

The suit asked indefinite damages it said would total more than $1 million. Plaintiffs were listed as Roy Woods Racing, Rasmussen Racing Products, Grant King Racers, Carl Behlhausen, Larry McCoy Sr. and M. Webster of Webster Racing Inc.

Each plaintiff had a car in line when time trials ended Saturday. They argued that because they were in line the deadline should have been extended to permit them a second chance at qualifying. USAC officials ruled against an extension because they had had an earlier opportunity to qualify.

The suit asks the court to "temporarily enjoin and restrain defendants from conducting said race unless and until each of the plaintiffs are allowed at least one opportunity" to qualify.

Speedway President Tony Hulman said he felt "terrible" about the suit. "I would like to see everybody get a chance," he said. But he said that to reopen time trials "would be to open ourselves to all sorts of actions."

"The people who qualified before the deadline certainly deserve consideration," Hulman said.

Binford said that all USAC was doing was enforcing the rules.

"Some judge may rule that it's not fair," Binford said. "If that is the case, it's okay with us and we will set aside a period for additional qualifying."

"In my own opinion, in a non-legal sense, I guess maybe it isn't fair."

Wright Huges Jr., attorney for four race car owners, announces he will seek an injunction to hold up next Sunday's Indianapolis 500-mile race.

'Dobbins' Winner Eyes State Meet Medals

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Writer

Jerry Kletchka joined some elite company Tuesday morning at Lincoln High's honors convocation. The senior track standout was named winner of the Harry Sidney Dobbins outstanding athlete award.

Established in 1913 by late Lincoln Journal editorial writer Harry T. Dobbins in honor of his son, it is one of the state's oldest athletic awards.

Kletchka joins such former winners as Vern Lewellen, Ced Hartman, Jug Brown, Bernie Masterson, Dutch White, Paul Arnen, Howard Debus and Bill Pfeiff.

According to veteran Lincoln High track coach Harold Scott, Kletchka belongs in such elite company.

"He's a tremendous competitor, one of the very best," Scott says of Kletchka, who has earned three letters in track, two in basketball and one in football at Lincoln High.

Kletchka, one of the state's premier middle distance runners has his sights set on gold medals in the 440 and 880 this week at the state track meet at Omaha Burke.

His best chance for gold is the 880, according to Scott. Kletchka owns only the eighth fastest clocking among a quality state half-mile field this spring.

But Scott believes Kletchka's best of 1:57.7 is somewhat deceiving because he hasn't been pushed to run faster.

The Lincoln High coach is hoping that Kletchka can upset the form charts in the same way that former Link standout Kent Radke did nine years ago.

"Kent ran right at two minutes all season because he wasn't tested, then ran away from the state meet field in 1:56.4," recalls Scott.

Kletchka faces the same stiff challenge. Five Class A runners own better times this spring and three have been under 1:56 more than once.

Scott, however, isn't ready to push the panic button. "I feel with the right type of conditions, Jerry is capable of running in the 1:54's," declares Scott.

"He's definitely a first-rate competitor," notes Scott. "He didn't even start running the half until just before the state meet last year. He was kind of dubious about it. We kept pointing out how well he was clipping a 660.

"So he ran the second leg on our 2-mile relay (which set the state record of 8.04.1 last year) and broke it wide open for us," recalls Scott.

"Actually, I wish he wouldn't have run so fast," says Scott. "My best two runners were both capable of 1:57's, but only ran 2-flat because Kletchka gave them such a big lead."

Durousseau Case Still Under Study

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

Omaha — The Nebraska State Racing Commission continued its hearing of the appeal of jockey L. J. Durosseau in a Tuesday afternoon session at Ak-Sar-Ben.

Commission chairman Harry Farnham said the hearing will be continued so the commission could study a motion by Durosseau's attorney, Kermit Brashear of Omaha to dismiss the ruling by Ak's three-man board of stewards.

Meanwhile, Durosseau can still ride horses until at least Thursday when his case is on the docket in Douglas County District Court.

"We can do nothing to prohibit him from riding here (at Ak-Sar-Ben) until the restraining order is up," Farnham said.

Durosseau was "suspended for the balance of this meeting for having in his possession an electrical device, prior to the running of the eighth race, May 9, 1974."

That was the gist of the ruling made by stewards Noel Chilcutt, Jim Hall and Jack Fickler.

Durosseau appealed that ruling to the Commission and obtained a temporary restraining order in District Court in order to continue riding horses at Ak-Sar-Ben until the matter is decided by the commission.

Brashear, in his motion to dismiss the stewards' ruling, said his client did not receive proper notice of the charges against him and a "general denial of due process."

"We should not proceed in this hearing until you have the information you desire," Farnham said. "We have to take a little time to digest all of this (the legal motion by Brashear)."

Brashear then objected to a further delay, citing the need for a speedy trial.

Farnham said the hearing could continue if Brashear and Durosseau would waive the motion to dismiss. Brashear immediately said no and the hearing was continued.

Durosseau, the Omaha riding champion in 1968, 1969 and 1970, was allegedly found with the electrical device as his mount Star Nasrullah was behind the starting gate.

This is Durosseau's second battle with an "electrical device" case. He was suspended during November of 1971 for allegedly having an electrical device during a race at the Oak Tree meeting at Santa Anita near Los Angeles.

Sports Bill In Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Tuesday first passed, then agreed to reconsider, a bill to establish a federal agency to control amateur athletics in the United States.

Initial passage was by voice vote with few senators present, But Republican Sen. J. Glenn Beall of Maryland asked reconsideration.

Beall told the Senate he would like to see some form of mediation of disputes between amateur athletic groups, but was bothered by federal government management of amateur athletics.

The Senate adopted Beall's motion to reconsider by a 56-29 roll call vote and the bill was returned to the Senate calendar for later disposition.

The Amateur Athletic Act of 1974, a slightly altered version of a 1973 bill that was voted out of the Senate Commerce Committee and then recalled, calls for a federal board to award and revoke charters of bodies seeking to govern U.S. sports in international competition.

Bonavena Wins

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — Argentine heavyweight Oscar Bonavena scored a unanimous decision over Larry Middleton of Baltimore Tuesday night in their 12-round bout at the Capital Centre.

On a five-point must system, Bonavena was ahead on all three officials' cards 59-53, 60-53 and 59-51 in the voting.

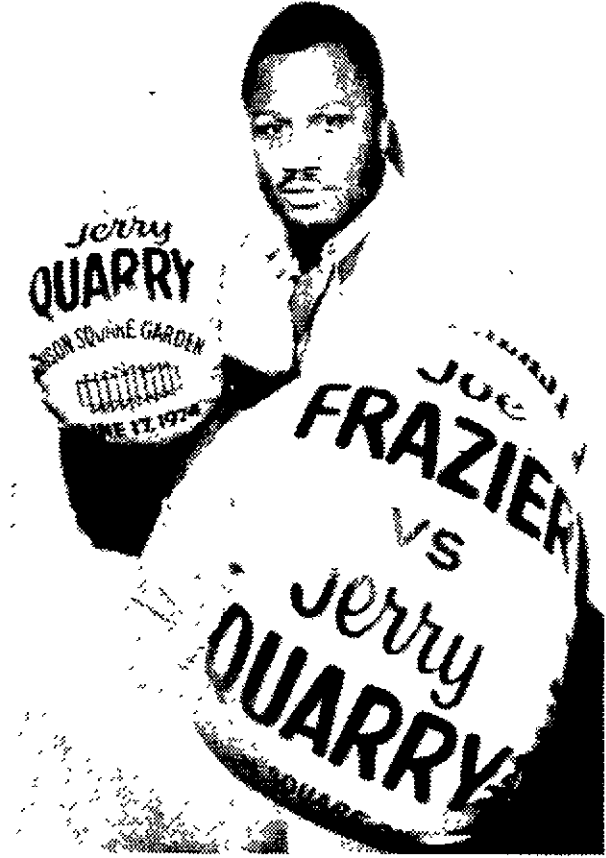

Bonavena, the seventh-ranked heavyweight in the world, decked Middleton, ranked No. 8, in the seventh round with a left hook but was unable to knock him out. Each of the fighters hit the canvas several times during the bout, but all but the knockdown blow were ruled slips.

Frazier Told Win Or Quit

Philadelphia (AP) — Trainer-manager Eddie Futch says he has advised Joe Frazier to retire if the former heavyweight champion doesn't win impressively against Jerry Quarry next month.

"This is something we have agreed on," Futch disclosed Tuesday before a Frazier training session for the June 17 fight at Madison Square Garden.

"Joe has to win and he has to look good," Futch explained. "He has to show me that he still belongs in this rough business. Otherwise I'd like to see him get out of it and start directing his energies in some other direction."

The 12-round Frazier-Quarry bout is the first half of a closed-circuit television doubleheader, with Bob Foster defending his light heavyweight title against Jorge Ahumada of Argentina in the second fight.

Although some believe that Frazier has lost the knockout punch that featured his rise to heavyweight champion, Futch insists that the power is still there and that Frazier is in the best mental and physical condition since he lost his title to George Foreman in January of 1973 in Jamaica.

Frazier, who admits he has financial security, was asked why he wanted to keep on fighting.

"Well, there is always another step you want to make in life and my next step is going back to the championship," Frazier said.

The former champ, who lost to Muhammad Ali in his last fight Jan. 28 in New York, added: "In order to make all the investments that I have got, it takes money. Therefore I feel that this fight will help me to invest more, and furthermore I feel like doing it fighting again. I feel that I'm in good shape and I like it."

Frazier reportedly will earn upwards of $300,000 for the Quarry fight.

Four Returning Gold Medalists Spice State Track Meet

Four returning gold medalists, including one state record-holder, spice the state boys track meet field Friday and Saturday at Omaha Burke.

Hastings' Doug Phelps, the state high jump record-holder at 6-7, is one of three returning class champions in the event.

Aurora's Dave Hahn (Class B) and Centura's Tim Mohanna (Class C) also will defend titles in what's expected to be the state's best crop of high jumpers ever.

Orioles Snap Losing Streak

By The Associated Press
Paul Blair's grand-slam homer and effective pitching by Mike Cuellar helped the Baltimore Orioles snap a three-game losing streak Tuesday night with a 7-1 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

Cuellar, 4-3, scattered seven hits in posting his fourth consecutive complete game.

In other American League games, the Boston Red Sox pounded the New York Yankees 14-6, the Kansas City Royals defeated the California Angels 4-2, the Oakland A's routed the Minnesota Twins 8-1, and the Milwaukee Brewers scored a 6-5 victory over the Detroit Tigers. The Texas Rangers at Chicago White Sox game was postponed because of rain.

In the National League, the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Montreal Expos 8-4, the New York Mets bombed the Chicago Cubs 10-5, the Houston Astros edged the San Diego Padres 5-4, and the Philadelphia Phillies beat the St. Louis Cardinals 4-2.

In West Coast action, the Atlanta Braves downed the San Francisco Giants 4-1 in the first game of a doubleheader, and the Cincinnati Reds were at Los Angeles.

Rico Petrocelli's homer leading off the second triggered a two-inning, 10-run outburst, and the Red Sox went on to post their fourth consecutive victory. The Red Sox jumped on Dick Tidrow for four runs in the second inning.

John Mayberry knocked in three runs with a homer and double for Kansas City. Mayberry gave the Royals a 1-0 lead in the first with his double, and homered in the sixth with one on.

Reggie Jackson and Gene Tenace homered for the A's, highlighting a six-run outburst in the seventh inning that broke a 1-1 tie. Jackson now has 12 home runs, tops in the AL.

A double steal and John Briggs' run-scoring triple produced two runs in the seventh inning that rallied the Brewers over the Tigers. Briggs' triple with Don Money aboard provided the winning run.

Ken Brett's five-hitter and sloppy defense by the Expos gave the Pirates their victory. Rennie Stennet doubled in one run for the Pirates, and Frank Taveras got two RBIs on sacrifice flies.

Pitcher George Stone drove in four runs with two singles and Ted Martinez had a two-run triple that helped the Mets produce a season-high run total in beating the Cubs.

Milt May unloaded his first home run as an Astro and helped Houston break a 10-game losing streak.

Baseball Player Survives After Lightning Strikes

IRVING, Tex. (UPI) — It was the bottom half of the second inning and third baseman Greg Lehrer fiddled with his glasses to peer at the dark rain clouds that rumbled out of the west.

"The pitcher threw a ball and the catcher missed it. I took off my glove and shuffled some dirt in front of my feet," he said Tuesday. "The next thing I remember I was in the hospital."

The 14-year-old boy had been struck by lightning.

The bolt shredded his White Sox cap, entered his body through his forehead and exited through his right heel. Burns on both spots showed the lightning's power.

Greg was knocked unconscious and might have died but for heart massage and mouth-to-mouth resuscitation by two policemen who had been coaching another nearby game.

The boy lay limp for 40 minutes. His legs, burned together, had to be pulled apart. The zipper on his uniform was melted. His heavy metal belt buckle was so hot it couldn't be touched. A chain around his neck was disintegrated.

The medal on the chain was blackened but not destroyed. It said: "O Mary Conceived Without Sin, Pray for Us Who Have Recourse to Thee."

A week after the incident, Greg has superficial burns on his body and a ruptured eardrum.

"Each team will play nine other clubs twice and two teams once during the regular season," said league President Gary Davidson. "Each team will play the other teams in its own division twice."

The four-team playoff semifinals are scheduled for Nov. 20.

The season opens on July 10 as Houston at Chicago, Detroit at Memphis, the Hawaiians at Florida, Southern California at Birmingham and Portland at Philadelphia. New York opens at Jacksonville July 11.

Kansas City (AP) — Pitcher David Hasbach, the first draft choice of the Kansas City Royals in the secondary baseball draft last January, has been signed, the American League team announced Tuesday.

The Royals also signed Craig Husband, a right-handed pitcher from Oregon who was their ninth pick in the regular phase of the draft.

Wildcats' Cager Harris Dead

St. Louis (AP) — Kansas State basketball player Dean Harris, who was critically injured last Friday in a two-car collision near suburban Collinsville, Ill., died here at Firmin Desloge Hospital.

Harris, 19, suffered multiple injuries in the head-on accident, which occurred during a driving rainstorm on Illinois 157 about two miles north of Interstate 70 and which also killed Patricia Hartman, 47, of Edwardsville, Ill.

The 6-8 Harris was a starting forward for the Wildcats as a freshman last season.

He was an all-district and all-state player during his senior year at Edwardsville High School before accepting a scholarship at K-State.

Hundreds Claim They Saw Patty

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Race: white. Sex: female. Height: 5 foot 3. Weight: 110 pounds. Hair: light brown. Eyes: brown. Complexion: fair. Marks: mole right chin, scar on inside of lower leg near ankle.

Hundreds of persons have reported seeing such a person since last Friday, and FBI agents and police have painstakingly been checking out every report.

Name: Patricia Hearst.

"You just can't believe the calls we've received," said FBI spokesman John Morrison. "There've been hundreds. We're actively pursuing each one."

Witnesses are shown photographs of Miss Hearst, 20, and two Symbionese Liberation Army companions. Most of the callers are mistaken, officials believe, but it is usually impossible to determine that for certain without checking.

"Any dark blonde looks like Patty Hearst, especially if she's with two companions," a police official observed.

The daughter of newspaper executive Randolph Hearst was dragged from her apartment on Feb. 4 and the SLA claimed to have kidnaped her. Miss Hearst later renounced her family and said she had joined her captors as a revolutionary.

She is now sought on a warrant charging her, Emily Harris, 27, and Emily's husband William, 29, with illegal possession and use of automatic weapons.

More charges will be filed against the three Wednesday morning, a spokesman for Los Angeles County Dist. Atty.

Joseph Busch said Tuesday. He would not say what the charges would be.

Miss Hearst's parents believe the end to the 3½-month ordeal is near, a family spokesman said Tuesday at the Hearsts' Hillsborough, Calif., home.

The spokesman said the Hearsts believe "this is going to end soon, it's going to be resolved imminently. Now suddenly the SLA is on the defensive."

John Lester, the spokesman, also said that Catherine Hearst was especially upset over the latest developments concerning her daughter.

"The wear is starting to show in her more than it had before," he said. "She had been keeping it inside."

"The one thing that keeps them going," Lester added, is that "they know she's alive."

Police say Miss Hearst has been identified as the person who sprayed a sporting goods store with bullets Thursday, a day before six SLA members died in an hour-long gun battle with police seeking the terrorists at a south Los Angeles house.

Miss Hearst and the Harrises were reported seen Monday all over Southern California, including Riverside, Newhall, Bakersfield and even Tijuana, Mex., as well as numerous places in Los Angeles.

In Newhall, William Wallis, 83, a retired Army master sergeant, said he recognized the trio immediately Monday night when they stopped to ask for directions to a motel. He said he talked to them for five minutes and that the couple seemed nervous but that "Patricia, who was in the back seat, was calm and talkative. She grinned at me. She's a wonderful looking girl. It's a shame."

Sheriff's deputies who talked to Walls said they believed he probably had seen the fugitives because he had identified them from photographs. However, the FBI was skeptical.

"It appears at this point that there's no connection," Morrison said. "The guy says what he says, but we have no additional evidence to support it."

Emily Harris' father, Frederick Schwartz, was in Los Angeles Tuesday appealing to his daughter to surrender. He said he would stay at his motel, hoping she would make contact, and that he wanted her to know, "I am quite willing to walk the path with you from any point of hiding into custody."

The American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) sharply criticized police Tuesday for what it called excessive force in the shootout.

"The entire tragedy began and ended within approximately one hour," said Ramona Ripston, ACLU Southern California executive director. "We question the need for police to press the obviously volatile situation so rapidly."

"In a somewhat similar situation in Brooklyn, the New York City police chose to wait 24 hours while a group of holdup men with hostages occupied a sporting goods store. At the end ... the hostages escaped and the holdup men surrendered."

She also criticized police for not evacuating the immediate area of the shootout.

"When the risk to human life is so grave, where potential damage to homes and neighborhoods is so severe, it is difficult to understand why other law enforcement procedures could not be attempted," she said.

The Rev. Edgar Edwards of the Immanuel United Church of Christ in south-central Los Angeles — where the shootout occurred — appeared with the ACLU head at a news conference and said a more humane solution could have been found "than burning people to death."

"As we looked at the live coverage on television ... we felt shock and moral outrage as we saw men, women, youth, children and babies in arms caught in the cross-fire in this unbelievable assault," the minister said.

House Panel Hears 2 Key Watergate Tapes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Judiciary Committee heard two key Watergate tapes Tuesday as President Nixon's attorney indicated the chief executive will reject a subpoena for more of them.

Prodded about the impeachment panel's Wednesday deadline for delivery of 11 additional Watergate recordings, presidential counsel James D. St. Clair told reporters he knew of "no change" in Nixon's decision to withhold all such remaining tapes both from the committee and the special prosecutor's office.

Apprehension of a new White House confrontation with the panel was fueled even more by St. Clair's delay in replying to the committee's separate request for dozens of tapes relating to the milk price and ITT cases.

St. Clair had promised some word by Monday. But Chairman Peter J. Rodino, D-N.J., said St. Clair had told the committee late Tuesday that he still "has not received instructions from the President" on the milk and ITT matters.

Rodino said he understood St. Clair was to meet with Nixon Tuesday night. St. Clair told reporters only that he was hopeful of delivering a reply before the day ended.

Committee members spent most of the day listening to two conversations between Nixon and former counsel John W. Dean III, one on March 13, 1973, and the other a week later.

Nixon has said that it was during his March 21 talk with Dean that he first learned of the Watergate cover-up.

Rep. Edward Mezvinsky, D-Iowa, said the tape "reinforced not only the (White House) transcripts but gave us a much clearer picture of the involvement not only of the President but of the men around him."

Asked whether he meant to imply that the President was involved in the coverup, Mezvinsky replied that the committee members would have to decide "whether the involvement is such that it is an impeachable offense."

Rodino disclosed at a post-session briefing that the committee has a tape of a presidential conversation on June 4, 1973, with White House Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler. During that discussion, Nixon, who had spent several hours listening to tapes of his conversations with Dean, described what he had heard to Ziegler.

Rodino said one of the meetings the President described was a March 17, 1973 conversation — which Nixon told Ziegler included "a discussion of the Watergate matter and the possible involvement of White House personnel."

Conversation Brief

Rodino noted that the White House transcript of the March 17 conversation extremely brief and relates only to discussions of the activities of political trickster Donald Segretti and the break-in at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist. Rodino said he will ask St. Clair for clarification.

Rep. Jerome R. Waldie, D-Calif., contended the March 21 tape showed that the President ordered hush money be paid to Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt.

"It was a command," Waldie said. "It was said very positively."

Waldie referred to the section of the publicly released transcript in which the President and Dean are discussing Hunt's alleged request for funds and the President says:

"Would you agree that that's the prime thing that you damn well better get done?"

Dean: Obviously he ought to be given some signal anyway.

President: (expletive deleted), get it.

Waldie said the President's full quote was: "Jesus Christ, get it."

Deletion Ordered

Rep. Henry P. Smith III, R-N.Y., disclosed that Rodino and Rep. Edward Hutchinson, of

Michigan, the ranking Republican on the Judiciary Committee, had ordered deletion of racial epithets from the tapes in the panel's possession.

Meanwhile Tuesday, the Senate Judiciary Committee announced a special vote of confidence in Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski and declared he is within his authority to pursue the White House tapes through the courts.

"This vote," said Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., "is an effort to say, 'Mr. President, back off, live up to the promise you made ...' of not interfering with the independent probe."

The Senate committee's unusual announcement followed a closed session to discuss Jaworski's disclosure Monday that the White House had argued in Judge John J. Sirica's court that he had no right to bring litigation against the President. Sirica dismissed that argument — and others — as he ordered Nixon to turn over 64 tapes sought by Jaworski.

Jaworski had written to the Senate committee that the White House claim threatened to "make a farce" of his mission and his independence.

Dismissed?

Despite that dispute, reminiscent of an earlier clash which resulted in the firing of Jaworski's predecessor, Archibald Cox, both St. Clair and Deputy White House Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said that dismissal of Jaworski was not under consideration.

Warren's statement came only after the question was posed repeatedly and turned aside. St. Clair said that "Mr. Jaworski and I obviously have a difference of opinion" but that turning the special prosecutor out of office "would be very unlikely."

St. Clair agreed that Jaworski "has every right" to take his complaint to the Senate, even though he doesn't agree with him.

In Other developments:

—District Judge Gerhard Gesell dismissed charges against one of the defendants in the break-in of the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist. But he rejected what he termed attempts by the other defendants to wrap themselves "with the mantle of the presidency."

Case Thrown Out

Gesell threw out the case against Felipe De Diego. He noted De Diego had been granted immunity from prosecution while appearing before grand juries in Florida — and had been promised that the information he gave there would not be used against him elsewhere. Gesell said there was simply no guarantee that the prosecution's case against De Diego would not include evidence he had supplied under the cloak of immunity.

But, on the second day of a week of hearings into the case, Gesell rejected a number of other defense motions, including one which asked that all the men be freed from prosecution because the Ellsberg operation was based on a presidential directive and therefore was immune from legal action.

The House committee's morning session was devoted primarily to listening to the tape of the March 13, 1972 conversation between the President and Dean. An edited transcript of the conversation was included in the volume released by the White House.

Committee members interviewed during the luncheon break seemed agreed that the tape differed little from the transcript. But they had varying interpretations of the tone and emphasis of the voices heard on the tape.

Reporter Farr Reaffirms Vow Never To Reveal News Source

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Reaffirming his vow never to identify the sources of a Manson trial news story, reporter William Farr left court Tuesday after a hearing which may determine whether he can be jailed again.

"My stand is precisely the same as it has been from the beginning," Farr said as he left the courtroom. "I'm never going to break my promise to my sources. There's nothing they can do that will force me to change my mind."

The hearing was the first step in a procedure suggested by the California District Court of Appeals as a means of ending the three-year-old freedom of the press dispute. That court urged a decision on whether further jailing could ever coerce Farr to reveal the names of sources.

Farr testified no amount of jail time would make him talk.

"I think we have met the burden that has been asked of us by the district court of appeals," said Farr's attorney, Mark Hurwitz, at the hearing's end. "We've attempted to bring in the most credible people in the country to testify that the protection of sources is a sacred commandment of reporters."

"Bill's position is not based on arrogance or disrespect of the court," Hurwitz said. "He is sincerely concerned with insuring the free flow of information to the public."

The appeals court indicated a point in Farr's favor would be proof that he is acting on an established ethical and moral principle of journalism. Walter Cronkite of CBS, Tom Brokaw of NBC and Jack Nelson of the Los Angeles Times Washington bureau supported that view in their testimony.

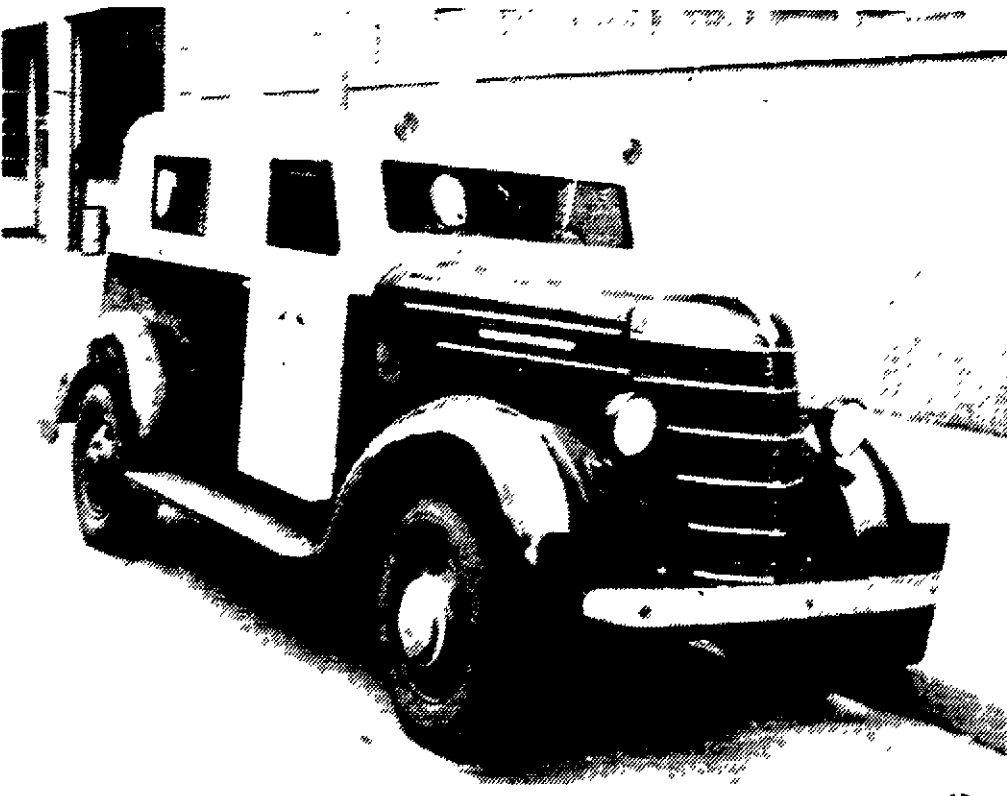

Superior Court Judge William H. Levitt, who presided at the hearing, told attorneys to prepare legal briefs on the question and present oral arguments on June 7. He will issue a decision soon after that, he said.

The Manson trial judge, Charles H. Older, who first held Farr in contempt of court for refusing to name two trial attorneys who gave him story information, relinquished jurisdiction over this hearing Older, who is running for re-election to the bench against two opponents in the June 4 election, has vowed to keep Farr in jail until he talks.

Farr has served 46 days of that indefinite sentence, but was released on the order of U.S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas pending appeals.

Levitt must decide whether Farr's further jailing would be coercive — possibly making him talk — or only a punitive action by Older. If the sentence is punitive, it must be limited to five days according to contempt laws.

Armored Truck Put On Auction Block

The city of Minneapolis has put this 36-year-old armored truck up for bids. It's vital statistics include a four-inch thick plating and solid rubber tires. The truck, which cost $6,811 in 1938, has 31,100 miles, a city spokesman said. It was retired in 1962. Police never used it during a riot, the spokesman said, but they often escorted private armored trucks hauling money to and from local banks.

We own a 1949 "Whizzer" which is a Schwinn motor bike. Can we purchase an antique license plate for it and, if so, can we get a cycle-sized one rather than a large automobile plate?

—L.L.S., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Verne Janssen, supervisor of the State Department of Motor Vehicles says the law on what's an antique vehicle is open to divergent interpretation. In one place, he said, it refers to "motor vehicles" — which is normally construed to mean passenger or freight carrying vehicles. In another place the law refers to "historic or special interest" vehicles.

After some discussion the Department of Motor Vehicles decided that motorcycles were eligible for the antique plates, which cost $25.

Janssen said it costs about $250-$600 to set up a die machine to stamp out the license plates. Because there are only a few motorcycles in the state that are bonafide antiques, it is financially impractical to produce a smaller plate. Janssen said that someday all the motorcycles on the road today might be antiques and then the smaller plate will undoubtedly be available.

For now you'll have to settle for the car-sized plate no matter how inconvenient it is.

What information do you have about a South American plant that provides both food and clothing fiber?

—C. Droehrs, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: The kapok tree, pictured, is found in Ecuador, among other places. It produces a silk-cotton fiber used for twine, packing sacks, fish nets, hammocks and an inexpensive cloth. In addition, it gives a kind of vegetable wool called kapok which is absolutely impermeable, very elastic and can sustain about 30 times its weight in water. It is therefore used in life preservers. The trees' seeds are crushed for oil used in soap and feed for livestock.

The agave plant is another that gives up many varied products. Several agaves (there are about 300 species, mostly in Mexico, the West Indies and southern North America) are among the world's major cordage fibre plants, including henequen and sisal.

A Mexican beverage called pulque, important both as food and drink, is the fermented sap of several large species. Mescal is a liquor distilled from fermented mash made from stems and leaf bases of various agave species. Tequila is one of many varieties of mescal.

Some agaves contain in their leaves significant quantities of a compound (hecogenin) that is convertible into cortisone. Agaves are also used for hedge-rows and erosion control.

We ordered water skis from O'Brien Ski Shop of Redmond, Wash. last May and paid for them in advance. We still have no skis and it is time to use them. Can you help?

—Jahnna Snow, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Darlene O'Brien at O'Brien Water Skis said you should have received a postcard explaining the delay. An unexplained manufacturing delay left O'Brien with a ski shortage. The skis are now being manufactured and all back orders are being filled. She said all orders are expected to be shipped by mid-June.

ACTION UPDATE: Elinor L. Brown, manager of Midwest Publishing Company at Ceresco has informed us she has a book which gives information about historical, cultural, recreational and beautiful places in Nebraska (Star, May 8). The book, including a map, is called Nebraska Travelrama. The price is $2. She says it's on sale at many places.

Another book, available at the same places, is Nebraska State Historical Markers. The price is $1.75.

Last fall I sent a $4.49 check to the Nursery Barn of McMinnville, Tenn. for a shade tree advertised as "Unquestionably the Most Beautiful Fast Growing Shade Tree in America Today."

When it didn't show much sign of life this spring I dug it up and sent it back to them. Their guarantee states they will replace unsatisfactory trees for up to one year. I think they owe me a good live tree but I haven't received one. Can you help?

—Mrs. Rudy Hakel, Seward

ACTION LINE: We called the Nursery Barn and talked to David McGregor in the customer service department. He said they would gladly replace your tree but are waiting for you to write and tell them when you want it. Since you obviously want it now, write to them at P.O. Box 712, McMinnville, Tenn. 37110, and your new tree will be on the way.

School Lunch Subsidy Hiked In Senate Vote

Washington (UPI) — The Senate voted Tuesday to increase the federal subsidy for school lunches to 10 cents per meal to meet the increased cost of food.
In addition to increasing the federal share from 7 cents in fiscal 1975, the bill would authorize an adjustment of the level in future years to reflect food costs.
The Senate adopted a second bill, like the first by voice vote, which includes a provision to raise the federal cost for a half-pint in the special milk program from 4 cents to a nickel.
An amendment by Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., to prohibit strikers from getting food stamps was defeated, 52 to 31.

Price Rises Expected

Livestock prices are expected to rise later this spring and into early summer as meat production declines from winter levels, the Division of Agricultural Statistics said Tuesday.
The report said that while prices were expected to rise during the summer, they would "generally decline for the rest of 1974 as meat supplies increase and inflationary pressures subside."
Per capita meat consumption this year is expected to rise not reach the 186 pounds of 1972, the report said.
On the wholesale level, figures showed, cattle prices have stabilized in the $40's per hundredweight range, after declining sharply from January highs.

Park Service Promotes Strain To Division Chief

Omaha (UPI) — Jack D. Strain has been elevated to the position of division chief at the regional headquarters in Omaha of the National Park Service.
Strain, 54, will be in charge of the preparation and review of environmental impact studies on projects and proposals which affect National Park Service parks and sites in Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, Minnesota and Nebraska.
Strain, whose home is in Lincoln, joined the Park Service after 25 years with the Nebraska Game Commission, where he served as chief of the Division of State Parks.
Strain, who joined the National Park Service 18 months ago, fills a vacancy created by the transfer of Ed Menning to the Rocky Mountain Region, headquartered in Denver, Colo.

Kidnap Suspect Is Apprehended

HOLDREGE (AP) — Officers of the Nebraska State Patrol and the Holdrege Police Department Tuesday night apprehended kidnap suspect Lonnie St. Clair.
The arrest was made on U.S. 183 about a mile south of Holdrege. It is not immediately known if St. Clair's former wife, Cheryl, and child were in the car at the time of arrest. The man was charged with abducting the pair about 1:30 a.m. Tuesday in Holdrege.
A neighbor reportedly saw St. Clair, a 20-year-old resident of the Holdrege-Alma area, force his ex-wife into a waiting car and drive away.

Richendifer said Downer should devise some way to allow the state Supreme Court to hear the case or he should not be allowed to preside over traffic cases.

Richendifer said "I'm afraid that if this action is not taken our speed limit law will be thrust into a hopeless state of confusion with law breaking being the order of the day."

In addition to increasing the federal share from 7 cents in fiscal 1975, the bill would authorize an adjustment of the level in future years to reflect food costs.
The Senate adopted a second bill, like the first by voice vote, which includes a provision to raise the federal cost for a half-pint in the special milk program from 4 cents to a nickel.
An amendment by Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., to prohibit strikers from getting food stamps was defeated, 52 to 31.

Park Service Promotes Strain To Division Chief

Omaha (UPI) — Jack D. Strain has been elevated to the position of division chief at the regional headquarters in Omaha of the National Park Service.
Strain, 54, will be in charge of the preparation and review of environmental impact studies on projects and proposals which affect National Park Service parks and sites in Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, Minnesota and Nebraska.
Strain, whose home is in Lincoln, joined the Park Service after 25 years with the Nebraska Game Commission, where he served as chief of the Division of State Parks.
Strain, who joined the National Park Service 18 months ago, fills a vacancy created by the transfer of Ed Menning to the Rocky Mountain Region, headquartered in Denver, Colo.

Price Rises Expected

Livestock prices are expected to rise later this spring and into early summer as meat production declines from winter levels, the Division of Agricultural Statistics said Tuesday.
The report said that while prices were expected to rise during the summer, they would "generally decline for the rest of 1974 as meat supplies increase and inflationary pressures subside."
Per capita meat consumption this year is expected to rise not reach the 186 pounds of 1972, the report said.
On the wholesale level, figures showed, cattle prices have stabilized in the $40's per hundredweight range, after declining sharply from January highs.

School Lunch Subsidy Hiked In Senate Vote

Washington (UPI) — The Senate voted Tuesday to increase the federal subsidy for school lunches to 10 cents per meal to meet the increased cost of food.
In addition to increasing the federal share from 7 cents in fiscal 1975, the bill would authorize an adjustment of the level in future years to reflect food costs.
The Senate adopted a second bill, like the first by voice vote, which includes a provision to raise the federal cost for a half-pint in the special milk program from 4 cents to a nickel.
An amendment by Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., to prohibit strikers from getting food stamps was defeated, 52 to 31.

Stocks Fail To Sustain Early Gains

New York (AP) — The stock market couldn't sustain even a lukewarm welcome Tuesday for some seemingly encouraging inflation news.

Prices edged up a little in early trading after the Labor Department reported that the rise of consumer prices slowed substantially in April, but by the close the market was in retreat again.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks 2.89 to 809.53, its lowest close since Feb. 13.

The New York Stock Exchange's composite index hung on to a token gain at 46.37. Losers outnumbered gainers by almost 2 to 1, however, as turnover limped along at 12.19 million shares on the Big Board.

Leslie M. Pollack at Hayden Stone, Inc., acknowledged the market's response to the consumer-price figures was "kind of discouraging." He said investors had been given strong indications, from the recent declines in many commodity prices, that a slowing in the rate of inflation might be at hand.

"But they only reaction has been a dropoff in the commodity-related stocks that had been the market leaders," he said.

Hercules, Inc., was the NYSE's most active issue, slipping 1/4 to 40 in trading that included a 165,500-share block at that price and another 50,000-share transaction at 40 1/4.

Copper issues showed continuing weakness, falling along with copper prices in London. American Copper 23 1/4, and Kennecott, off 1/4 at 32 1/2, both hit new 1974 lows in active trading during the session.

On the other hand, generally posted gains. Exxon was up 1/2 at 72 1/2. Mobil climbed 1/2 to 42 1/2, and Texaco, which said it might resume dividend payments later this year if a strong energy trend continues, was up 1/4 at 104 1/4 in busy trading.

On the American Stock Exchange, Synth, which reported sharply higher quarterly earnings, gained 1/2 to 51 1/2. The Amex market-value index lost .40 to 80.75.

Corn, Wheat Up

Chicago (AP) — Corn and wheat futures prices staged late rallies Tuesday to rebound from major losses on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Soybeans came back somewhat also, but couldn't match the vitality of corn and wheat.

Range Of Prices

CHICAGO (UPI) — Grain futures prices ranged from 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 for wheat, 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 for corn, and 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 for soybeans.

Malaysian Student Tops McCook Grads

McCook — Felix Chong Wah Koo of Malaysia was named the top student in the graduating class of 1974 at McCook Community College during the 47th annual commencement ceremonies. Second place in the scholastic ranking went to Steve Filkin and third to Catherine A. Yamamoto, both of McCook.

State 4-H Week To Attract Over 300

More than 300 Nebraska 4-H'ers will meet in Lincoln June 4-7 for state 4-H Club Week. The theme for the four-day gathering is "4-H Puts It All Together." Louie Rudman, associate 4-H leader at the University of Nebraska, said the conference is to acquaint older 4-H members with the university, and to explore careers with Omaha business firms.

Nebraska City Delivery Sets Record

Omaha (UPI) — A record tonnage for a single barge on the Missouri River this season was set May 16 when a barge containing 2,462 tons of liquid fertilizer was delivered at the Steinhart terminal in Nebraska City. The 52 x 290 foot barge was towed by the Belinda Brent, owned by the Grant Towing Co., Greenville, Miss. It was the greatest tonnage per single barge recorded by the Omaha District of the Corps of Engineers for 1974 on the Missouri River.

Madison OK'd For Flood Insurance

New York (UPI) — Another Nebraska community has become eligible for low-cost flood insurance through the National Flood Insurers Association. The city of Madison in Madison County will be serviced by the Royal-Globe Insurance Companies of Kansas City, Mo. Damage from flooding is not covered in standard property insurance policies.

Hall Faces Two Counts Of Assault

Falls City (AP) — Dale Hall, 25, appeared in Richardson County Court Monday on two counts of assault. Hall was arrested Sunday after police officers received a call that a man with a shotgun had threatened to take his life. Officers broke into the home and reportedly found Hall with a 16-gauge shotgun pointed at his chin. A scuffle followed and Hall was arrested. He is being held in Richardson County jail in lieu of $5,000 bond.

Milk Production Down This Year

University of Nebraska Extension economist T. A. Evans says milk production in Nebraska decreased during the first quarter of this year. The decline was generally in line with a national trend, Evans said. He attributed the drop to a 3% decline in the cow population. Between 4-5% fewer cows were on Nebraska dairy farms during the first quarter of this year, compared with the same period last year.

Coin Calls Cascade In

Nebraska is a "saving state," Prestige Coins representative Leon W. Creel said Tuesday.

Nebraskans save money and coins, Creel said. That is why his company sent representatives to Lincoln and Omaha to offer localities big money for old coins.

Creel and his associate Ed Ohl had about 40 callers in the first half-day of their scheduled five-day stay at Lincoln's Radisson-Cornhusker Hotel. All were answering full-page ads in local papers, offering 300% of face value for silver coins and a variety of prices for gold coins.

Wasted In South?

Such a costly ad campaign would probably be wasted in the South, Creel said, because southerners just don't have old coins to sell. But in the Midwest, and on the two coasts, he said, there are enough coin savers to make it worth his while.

Most customers have some idea their coins are valuable, he said, or they wouldn't have saved them. But many are surprised by how much they're worth now, he said, because of rising prices of metals.

And because many find out through the company's ads, they decide to sell to Prestige Coins, he said.

Morrison Would Operate 'Aggressive' Justice Dept.

Former Gov. Frank Morrison Tuesday pledged to operate a "more active" and "more aggressive" Department of Justice if he is elected as attorney general this autumn.

Morrison is the Democratic nominee for the post being vacated by Republican Atty. Gen. Clarence Meyer.

"I would be more aggressive (as attorney general), but that's a difference in philosophy," Morrison told a Lincoln news conference.

Morrison said he would try to work closer with county attorneys "to build up their effectiveness" with state assistance.

And, he said, he would aggressively pursue the consumer protection responsibilities assigned to the attorney general's office by the 1974 Legislature.

'Long Overdue'

"It's long overdue," he said, "Nebraska has been near the bottom in the area of consumer protection."

"Many white collar crimes go undetected, unreported and unprosecuted."

Many of those offenses are "just as serious a crime as many of the so-called traditional crimes," he said.

Morrison said he would assign one or more deputies to work with county attorneys and other officials in providing protection for Nebraska consumers.

In answer to questions, Morrison acknowledged the name recognition advantages which he will carry into the campaign as a former governor.

"I know my name is well known," he said. "But if my best qualification was the name of Morrison, which I proudly bear, I would never have filed for the office."

'Storehouse Of Experience'

Morrison said he can offer the voters "a storehouse of experience," which includes

All Faiths Chapel Started For Beatrice State Home

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Beatrice — After nine years of endeavor, a few spadeful of dirt indicated here Tuesday that a Beatrice State Home all faiths chapel is about to become reality.

As a dozen or so leaders shared in a ceremonious groundbreaking, campaign chairman Keith Chambers noted that the 90-year-old institution has always held worship services in "whatever space was available." That's about to change, hopefully by the end of 1974.

A modernly designed chapel to accommodate 200 persons is in the offing. A contract is to be let next month and work on the long-awaited structure will be under way in July.

As some 150 persons gathered at the building site, it was noted that Beatrice Kiwanians had launched a fund-raising effort in 1965. Only about $30,000 remains toward a goal of just over $180,000 — and half of that has been pledged on a matching basis.

Harvey Mahloch of rural DeWitt, after an initial gift of $10,000 offered to match contributions up to another $30,000. He was one of several individuals taking a turn at the shovel.

Suit Asks For Restraint Against Use Of Barracks

A Lancaster County District Court judge has been asked to restrain the city from allowing persons who come to Lincoln for the Wounded Knee trials to live in an abandoned Air Force barracks.

Judge Herbert Ronin tentatively scheduled a hearing for Wednesday afternoon on the case filed by Franklin E. Quinn. Quinn lives in Arnold Heights near the old Lincoln Air Force barracks.

His suit names Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf, the City Council and the Lincoln Airport Authority as defendants.

Quinn claims allowing Indians and others to use the barracks would constitute unlawful use of tax money, violate the municipal code and allow private use of public property.

Trials of more than 100 persons involved in the takeover of Wounded Knee, S.D., last year have been ordered transferred to U.S. District Court here later this month.

Mrs. Smith Apparent Winner Over Blank

Omaha (AP) — A count nearing completion Tuesday showed Mrs. Haven Smith of Chappell was the apparent winner over Don Blank of McCook in the race for the Republican nomination for Congress from Nebraska's 3rd District.

Mrs. Smith had a lead of 149 votes, with mail ballots canvassed in all but seven of the 61 counties in the state's largest district.

The tabulation included the canvassed vote along with absentee and disabled voter ballots in 54 counties, and unofficial returns in seven counties which had not completed their official counts.

366 Mail Ballots

Mrs. Smith had 15,618 votes and Blank 15,469. In the seven counties yet to be canvassed, 366 mail ballots were out.

In the count so far, Mrs. Smith and Blank have been sharing only 20 per cent of the absentee and disabled ballots cast. The remainder have gone to other Republican candidates and to Democratic candidates.

If the same proportion is maintained in the pending mail votes, only 73 ballots will be involved, less than half of Mrs. Smith's margin over Blank.

A sharp revision by canvassing boards or serious error in unofficial returns in any of the seven uncanvassed counties could affect the income. But the Nebraska Election Service said so far only one such revision had surfaced in the 54 canvassed counties.

Review Awaited

Certainty of the victory for Mrs. Smith, wife of a wheat farmer and longtime GOP worker, must await review by the State Canvassing Board, which meets in Lincoln June 10 to certify nominations.

The NES said it had certified all figures with county clerks and election commissioners, including the canvassed vote and the unofficial returns reported election night.

Mrs. Smith led Blank, the mayor of McCook, in mail ballots in 33 of the 54 counties canvassed. In the overall 61-county tabulations, including the absentee and disabled vote, Mrs. Smith was ahead of Blank in 37 and tied with him in three, with Blank leading in 21 counties.

The ties were in Grant County, where each received 25 votes, Hooker, each 21, and Hamilton, each 187.

The 366 absentee and disabled voter ballots out in these seven counties: Boone, with 54; Buffalo, 120; Kearney, 29; Nuckolls, 31; Phelps, 37; Frontier, 30, and Platte, 65.

Later In Week?

County clerks in some uncanvassed counties said they expected to complete the job Wednesday but a few said it could be later in the week.

State Sen. Gerald Stromer of Kearney, in third place, was running about 2,000 votes behind Mrs. Smith.

The winner will face Democrat Wayne Ziebarth for the 3rd District seat to be vacated by Rep. Dave Martin. Republican who is retiring after 14 years in the House.

Other Republican candidates were J. James Waldron of Callaway, the Rev. Gerald L. Landby of Hildreth, Jack Langford of Kearney, Ronald Blauvelt of Thedford and James Wenger of Grand Island.

Ulysses Area Gets 6-7 Inches Of Rain

Torrential downpours — up to an unofficial six to seven inches west of Ulysses — caused temporary minor flooding in parts of Butler County Tuesday as Nebraska's unsettled weather conditions continued.

For a time Tuesday, the Highway 15 detour between David City and Seward was closed by high water in places. And several Butler County roads west of Ulysses were impassable, according to Leonard Shipley, deputy Butler County sheriff.

David City's rainfall totaled 3.02 inches, but southeast of the Butler County seat farmers reported between five and six inches. Shipley said.

The Blue River was out of its banks at several spots in Butler County and "just about over the bridges" both east and north of Ulysses late Tuesday afternoon.

according to the deputy sheriff.

Ulysses received three inches of rain in a two-hour period early Tuesday.

Reports from northeastern Nebraska were of up to two inches of rain. Though Norfolk received only .57 of an inch, police there said they had reports of 1.50 to two inches, with hail, from rural areas.

Small hailstones fell at Papillion Tuesday afternoon accompanied by .80 of an inch of rain in a 20-minute period.

Lincoln received .44 of an inch of rainfall, bringing May's total amount to 3.55 inches, compared to a normal of 2.12. The capital city's total for 1974 stands at 8.80 inches — 7.66 is the yearly normal for this time of the year.

Cooler weather is due over the state Wednesday, with no mention of moisture in the forecast.

Bangladesh Inks Pact With U.S.

Dacca, Bangladesh (AP) — The United States and Bangladesh signed an economic and technical aid pact Tuesday. U.S. Ambassador Davis Eugene Boster said substantial U.S. aid for various development projects in this new developing nation will be announced in June. Bangladesh is the former East Pakistan.

The United States supported the defeated Pakistanis in Bangladesh's war of independence in 1971. But American ties with Bangladesh have strengthened since a U.S. contribution of $433 million to help rebuild the war-torn economy and import food and other essential commodities.

Income Up Sharply

Chicago (AP) — Santa Fe Industries, Inc., reported income for the first four months of 1974 was $37.5 million compared with $27.3 million a year ago.

Export-Import Bank Loans $180 Million To Russians

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Export-Import Bank Tuesday granted a $180 million loan to the Soviet Union to help finance construction of a huge fertilizer complex, including a 1,200-mile pipeline to the Black Sea.

The loan is the largest credit ever extended to the Soviet Union by the bank.

The project, which was worked out by Board Chairman Armand Hammer of Occidental Petroleum Corp., includes the import by the United States of ammonia and urea fertilizers from the Soviet Union in exchange for superphosphoric acid, also a fertilizer, from this country. The entire project is estimated to cost $2 billion.

The Ex-Im bank loan, plus a private loan from U.S. commercial banks in the same amount, will be used to help finance construction of ammonia and urea plants Togliatti and Kuybyshev and a pipeline from the plant sites to Odessa, a Black Sea port. The plants are scheduled to be completed by December 1978.

Interest on the Ex-Im loan will be 6 per cent, about half the prime commercial lending rate in this country and less than the current 7 per cent interest on Ex-Im bank loans.

An Ex-Im spokesman said, however, the 6 per cent interest was the prevailing interest for the loan was made a year ago.

Ex-Im Chairman William J. Casey said the loan will finance purchases by the Soviet Union of $400 million in U.S. goods. He said Occidental Petroleum and its affiliates also plan to invest more than $500 million in the United States to construct, ship and expand production of phosphate rock in Florida.

"In addition to the sale of at least $400 million in U.S. equipment and supplies, the project should provide substantial balance of trade advantages resulting from trade of commodities," he said.

Casey noted that superphosphoric acid is in abundant supply in the United States while urea and ammonia are needed here.

The Ex-Im loan of $180 million exceeds the previous high Ex-Im bank loan to the Soviet Union of $153 million, granted in 1973 to help finance a Kama River truck plant.

Ex-Im bank loans are made for the purpose of promoting U.S. exports and the money can only be used to purchase U.S. goods.

The application for the Soviet loan had been pending for more than a year because the bank insisted on additional information from the Soviet Union on its financial position to assure it could repay the loan.

The House Banking and Currency Committee recommended, meanwhile, that the House disapprove a resolution urging a ban on U.S. Export-Import Bank credits to the Soviet Union and Soviet bloc countries.

The nonbinding resolution has 225 House sponsors.

The resolution would tie Ex-Im credits to a loosening of Soviet and Soviet bloc emigration policies, particularly as they affect Jews.

Among U.S. firms which are expected to sell goods and services to the Soviet Union, the Ex-Im Bank said, are Occidental Corp., Bechtel Corp., Kaiser Steel, Union Carbide Corp., Westinghouse Electric and Chemical Construction of New York.
